Twins Dock After Dramatic Space Chase

Agena Is Captured On First Attempt To Accomplish Feat In Record Time

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 11 astronauts, swift hunters in the sky, accomplished man's quickest rendezvous of high-flying space vehicles today as a dramatic prelude to three adventurous days in space.

Beautiful: Mission Control

They caught and captured an Agena target satellite before they completed their first orbit of the globe.

"We are docked," exclaimed Gemini 11 command pilot Charles Conrad Jr.

"Beautiful," Mission Control said to the spacemen.

The rendezvous occurred approximately 185 miles above the Pacific Ocean and the word was relayed by the pilots when they passed over a tracking station at Point Arguello, Calif.

Nearly Three Hours Faster

Conrad and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr. accomplished the quick first-orbit rendezvous nearly three hours and two orbits faster than any previous Gemini flight.

They skillfully steered their tiny spaceship through a series of maneuvers as they pursued the Agena over an 18,000-mile course, catching it above the Pacific Ocean some 80 minutes after they rode a thundering Titan 2 rocket from Cape Kennedy.

About 10 minutes later, at 11:15 a.m. (EST), high over the United States, Conrad gently slipped the Gemini nose into a docking collar on one end of the Agena.

Sail As One

Mechanical latches gripped the two as they sailed as one rigid vehicle.

Conrad, 36, called out as Gemini approached for the record rendezvous: "Would you believe M. equal one?"

"M equal one" is the astronaut's term for a first-orbit rendezvous.

When Conrad told the ground he used only 44 per cent of his fuel to accomplish the docking mission control replied:

"That's great, Pete."

Experts had said as much as 75 per cent of the fuel might be required for the tricky maneuvering of Gemini 11.

The 80-minute link at 17,500 miles an hour easily topped the old rendezvous mark of four hours set by the Gemini 9 astronaut.

College to Sign For Part-Time

Registration for part-time evening classes at Ulster County Community College will be conducted tonight and Tuesday night.

Classes will begin next Monday night.

Registration will be conducted from 6 to 9 o'clock tonight for returning part-time students.

Registration for new part-time students will be conducted from 6 to 9 o'clock tomorrow night.

Advisors will be present both nights to assist students in the selection of courses.

All told, 43 evening courses are being offered by the college this year. Courses will cover wide areas, including the Humanities, Social Sciences, Business, Science and Mathematics and Technology.

Registration tonight and tomorrow night will be conducted at the college's temporary campus at 214 West Chestnut Street.

IT'S FINALLY ANCHOR'S AWEIGH—Navy Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr., left and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr., representing the first all-Navy crew for Gemini 11, finally made it today after two disappointing delays. The astronauts, shown in their capsule, rocketed off at 10:42 a. m. EDT in hot pursuit of an Agena satellite which was fired at 9:05 a. m. They pulled off a spectacular space feat later in the morning when they caught up with the tiny target and at 12:15 perfected the actual docking with the satellite. The dramatic feat took place before Conrad and Gordon completed their first orbit of the globe. (AP Wirephoto)

Astros May Prove to Be Best Talkers

a lot; so much, in fact, as to challenge ground controllers to squeeze a word in edgewise as the two whip through space in Gemini 11.

"You know I've never been quiet," said Navy Cmdr. Conrad.

Conrad, "Pete" to all who know him, proved this during his eight-day Gemini 5 trip with Air Force Col. L. Gordon Cooper Jr. last year. He unofficially became the poet laureate of space, with the ditties he composed — and even sang.

They could prove to be the most talkative astronaut team, following probably the most talkative Gemini 10 pilots John W. Young and Michael Collins had to be coaxed into chit-chat during parts of their 44-orbit journey in July.

Gemini 11 was set to begin its three-day trip from Cape Kennedy, Fla., today.

After Two Delays

Not only do Conrad and Gordon possess similarly effervescent personalities, they have many other things in common that make them a natural team to man a cramped spaceship:

First All-Navy Crew

—Both are dyed-in-the-wool Navy men, making the first all-Navy Gemini crew. Conrad has a big tattoo of an anchor, stars and initials of the U.S. Navy on his upper left arm.

—Both have large families. Gordon is the father of six children, including four boys; Conrad has four sons.

—Each is 36. Conrad turned 36 on June 2. Gordon will be 37 Oct. 5.

—Both originally applied for the astronaut program at the same time, while members of the same naval fighter squadron. Conrad was elected to the space corps a year before Gordon, in 1962.

Gordon laughingly puts it this way: "We have pretty much the same personality. I can tell me to go to hell, just as I can tell him to go to hell."

A native of Seattle, Wash., Gordon was graduated from the University of Washington in 1951.

"I was an enlisted man in the Naval Reserve a weekend warrior — while going to college," Gordon said, explaining how he chose a Navy career the year he graduated. "I decided to go ahead and join, especially

Heaviest Raids of War

Yanks Fly 171 Missions Against North Targets

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American warplanes

pounded North Viet Nam with the heaviest raids of the war Sunday, the U.S. command announced.

B52 bombers struck today at North Vietnamese troops in the demilitarized zone in follow-up raids to tactical strikes made Sunday by Air Force Canberras and Phantom bombers.

A U.S. spokesman said American pilots flew a record 171 missions against the Communist North hitting at bridges, fuel depots and transportation facilities in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas and the southern Panhandle.

Pilots taking part in Sunday's raids reported damaging or destroying 107 cargo barges, 11 junks, 19 bridges, 33 supply buildings, 13 trucks and one missile site.

Over South Viet Nam, U.S. pilots flew 363 strike sorties Sunday, claiming more than 200 enemy bunkers, tunnels, huts, trenches and fortified positions were destroyed or damaged. A sortie is a single combat mission by a single plane.

Ground action in South Viet Nam continued in a lull and United States and Vietnamese military spokesmen reported no major enemy contacts.

156 Was Previous High

The 171 air missions over the North was well over the previous high of 156 raids of Aug. 26. A U.S. spokesman would not say how many individual plane strikes the 171 missions involved but such large numbers would almost certainly mean 400 to 500 single-plane sorties.

In raids Sunday against the demilitarized zone, Air Force B57 Canberras and F4C Phantoms reported touching off 55 secondary explosions and eight secondary fires.

This indicated bomb hits on North Vietnamese ammunition and fuel dumps in the one neutral buffer zone between North and South Viet Nam.

These raids in the northern half of the zone were followed by the B52 strikes today in the southern half, which were aimed at North Vietnamese troop concentrations.

Pilots carried the war to the enemy as U.S. and allied troops remained on field duty, replacing South Vietnamese troops

Called Unforseeable

"I would be opposed to treating the investment credit as one of many countercyclical devices to be suspended and restored with the normal ups and downs in our economy."

"The present situation is unique and was quite unforeseeable."

Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor backed Fowler's appeal, telling the committee that "a major source of the inflationary pressure has been the boom in capital spending."

He said suspension of the tax investments "will still permit our nation's industrial capacity

Will Press Try for Troop Cut Hearings Left Up To Full Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Despite President Johnson's opposition, Sen. Mike Mansfield said today he intends to press his attempt to put the Senate on record for substantial reductions of U. S. forces in Europe.

But the Senate Democratic leader said in an interview he will leave it to the Senate to decide whether the resolution urging the cutback should be the subject of public hearings.

Too Complex: Dirksen

The Montana senator previously planned to call up the resolution without such hearings. But Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen objected, contending that the issues involved are too complex for the Senate to act until it knows where it is going.

Johnson told a news conference last Thursday he doesn't think "this involved problem can be solved by Senate resolutions." He said there must be consultation and agreement with U. S. allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization NATO over necessary military strength and how to apportion it.

Mansfield said he is in complete accord that there must be allied consultation and that the United States could not afford to act alone to reduce its troop contribution.

"But the European nations have been acting unilaterally in regard to their responsibilities in this matter," he said. "Some

Commonwealth Clamps Lid Of Secrecy on Rhodesia

LONDON (AP) — Commonwealth statesmen today clamped total secrecy on their Rhodesia talks after hearing Prime Minister Harold Wilson outline new British plans to speed the end of the rebellion in the breakaway colony.

Crucial Statement

Wilson delivered his crucial statement in a 50-minute address to the 22-nation Commonwealth Conference which has been demanding sterner British action to topple the white minority regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Wilson's aides released no details of that statement. African and Asian ministers declined all comment on it. The conference agreed to black out all information on the exchanges.

Against Pressure

Sources had predicted earlier that Wilson would come out sure to withhold legal independence from Rhodesia until black majority rule is established there.

Sources said Wilson would take a stand against such a promise when the Commonwealth conference reopens after a weekend recess. It could precipitate a serious crisis in the global partnership.

All 17 nonwhite Commonwealth members, backed by Canada and Cyprus, joined last week in presenting Britain with a demand for a pledge not to grant Rhodesia independence before an African majority rule is set up on a basis of one-man-one-vote.

Endorsement of Speech

The immediate effect of such a promise would be the collapse of Wilson's informal search for a compromise with Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority regime which declared independence last Nov. 11. However, it would dispel the suspicion among African na-

Beacon Girl Is One of 12 N. Y. Weekend Fatales

Twelve persons were killed in traffic accidents in New York State during the weekend, including a 15-year-old Dutchess County girl who was fatally injured in a two-car collision in the Town of Wappinger, which resulted in injuries to eight other persons.

The toll also included a 29-year-old mother of eight children who was expecting her ninth child.

Action Pending

Fishkill State Police told The Freeman that criminal action is pending as the result of the fatal Dutchess County mishap, which occurred at 9:35 p. m. Sunday on Chelsea Road, Town of Wappinger.

The victim of the Dutchess fatality was Patricia Papo, of 328 Wolcott Avenue, Beacon. She was a passenger in a car driven by Robert G. Boudlos, 18, of Fishkill, which was involved in a head-on crash with a vehicle operated by William T. Cleary, 46, of 14 Mansion Street, Poughkeepsie.

Cleary suffered a fractured left tibia, broken finger and lacerations of the hands. Nina Cleary, 45, of the Poughkeepsie address sustained fractured ribs, facial lacerations and other injuries.

Teens to Be Recognized In Monthly Award Plan

A Young American Awards Program to give recognition to outstanding local high school students has been announced by Warren Simmons, director of advertising of The Kingston Daily Freeman, and chairman of the programs civic committee.

"Under the sponsorship of the local Montgomery Ward store, each month one outstanding student will be given special recognition as recipient of the award," Simmons said.

According to Chairman Simmons, the idea and financial support for the program has been provided by David W. Mountford, local Montgomery Ward store manager. In a message to Mountford, Robert E. Brooker, chairman of Wards Board of Directors said, "Our most precious possession is our youth for they will decide the future of America and possibly the future of the

Ky Points To 80 PC Balloting Assembly to Meet On September 26

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao

Ky said today that 80 per cent of South Viet Nam's voters had turned out for the national elections which spelled "the beginning of the end for the Communists."

"We now have the conditions for final victory," the premier said at a gala diplomatic and press conference at which all members of the ruling military council appeared.

One Woman Elected

The new assembly of 117 representatives elected to write a new constitution will meet Sept. 26 and Ky said they should finish their work "as soon as possible."

The new assembly, as announced by Maj. Gen. Nguyen Duc Thang, who was in charge of the elections, included 22 teachers, 20 military men, 18 civil servants, 17 provincial councilors, 15 professional people, eight farmers, three judges and three others.

Only one woman, of 18 female candidates, was successful. The average age of the assembly is 40.

Gen. Thang said that on election day there were 5,289,652 eligible voters. Of this number 4,274,812 went to the polls.

Protest Vote Small

Thang admitted that among the voters some cast blank ballots of protest, but said the number was far smaller than the 15 per cent who cast defaced ballots in the 1955 provincial elections. He gave no figure however.

Ky, resplendent in a black tailored uniform, lavender neck scarf and six rows of bright ribbons on his chest, said the elections were "a victory of the entire free world against the efforts of evil forces to enslave mankind."

WJT Makes It After Long Wait

NEW YORK (AP) — The World Journal Tribune makes its debut today, with a press run of 900,000 copies of an 80-page afternoon newspaper.

The corporation will publish a Sunday newspaper also, starting next Sunday. Publication had been held up 4½ months while labor difficulties were settled.

The last union barrier was removed Sunday when the stereotypers voted to ratify a new contract with the World Journal Tribune Inc. James J. McMahon, president of the stereotypers union local, said the ratification vote among the 150 men at the meeting was "practically unanimous."

The staff of the six-day afternoon paper and the Sunday paper is made up of onetime employees of the three papers that merged into the new corporation — the Herald Tribune, the Journal-American and the World-Telegram & Sun. The afternoon and Sunday papers will have columnists, features and comics of the three merged papers.

The World Journal Tribune afternoon edition is being printed at the old World-Telegram & Sun building, downtown on Barclay Street, which also houses

Will Discuss Possible Urban Shifts Tonight

Possible changes in both uptown and downtown urban renewal will be discussed tonight by members of the Common Council and representatives of Raymond & May Associates, of Pleasantville, local planning consultants.

It was also noted today that a decision might be made next week on downtown's Rondout Gardens 135-unit housing project, which last month drew bids higher than the sum available for it.

More With Uptown Plan

Tonight's discussion, due to start at 7 p. m. in the City Hall, is expected, will deal more with changes in uptown urban renewal, as now planned, than with any drastic alteration of downtown plans.

It has been indicated by recent discussion in the Common Council that uptown merchants have been dissatisfied with UR plans for the area and contend that certain sites should not be changed immediately for rehabilitation or any form of change.

Proposed changes for downtown will probably involve general timing of the project.

Expect Decision Shortly

Reports today on the bids received for downtown's Rondout Gardens project revealed that George E. Yerry Jr., Kingston Housing Authority chairman, and Alexander Yosman, executive director, have been in contact with officials of the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, and expect a decision next week as to procedure in dealing with bids which totaled higher than the $2,342,000 earmarked for the project.

Low bids as received Aug. 16 for Rondout Gardens, heating and electrical work totaled $2,502,805, and the high for all work went to $2,898,640.

In progress, meanwhile, is ac-

11 States Have Key Ballots Tuesday, To Clear 178-Plus for Nov. 8 Places

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

Associated Press Writer

Tuesday is the biggest primary day of the year. Eleven states vote and contests include notable scraps for Democratic nominations for the Senate and governor in Minnesota.

Maryland and Wisconsin also have hot battles over Democratic nominations for governor and New Hampshire Republicans have a six-way struggle on over their party's Senate nomination.

Other states voting are Arizona, Colorado, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Utah and Vermont.

Statistically, the voting will clear 178-plus candidates for places on the ballot Nov. 8 when 435 House members, 35 senators and 35 governors are to be elected.

Democrats and Republicans are making nominations for 74 House seats, 9 Senate seats and 6 governorships — a total of 178 candidates. There are also some primary contests, chiefly in New Jersey, over ballot places as independents.

After Tuesday's voting, the states to hold primaries will be Georgia, Wednesday; Louisiana, runoff Saturday; Washington, Sept. 20, and Hawaii, Oct. 1. A Georgia runoff, which virtually is certain, would be held Sept. 28.

In both Massachusetts and Minnesota, the Democratic fights involve candidates endorsed by state party conventions and challengers who appealed to the voters from the convention decisions.

Edward J. McCormack Jr., former attorney general, was endorsed for Massachusetts governor. Kenneth P. O'Donnell, who was on President John F. Kennedy's staff, is running against him for the nomination. Boston Mayor John F. Collins is contesting with former Gov. Endicott Peabody, the endorsed candidate, for the Massachusetts Senate nomination. Thomas B. Adams, Boston businessman, also is running.

The winner will go against Republican Edward W. Brooke, state attorney general who is a Negro. In what is expected to be one of the top Senate contests the year, Brooke is unopposed for his party's nomination. Republican Gov. John A. Volpe is unopposed for renomination.

In Minnesota, the Democrats who operate with a hyphenated tie to the Farmer-Labor party, spurned Gov. Karl E. Rolvaag for endorsement at their convention.

Rolvaag now is trying to prove the convention made a

Expect Hundreds At Tuesday Fete Of Restaurateurs

An annual event that always draws a large crowd is the yearly fall outing of the Ulster County Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association, Inc. Tickets for the 1966 edition of the festive affair are again at a premium, according to Jack Misasi, ticket chairman.

Stated Tuesday, from 2 to 8 p. m., at Gene Whalen's Ulster Landing Lodge grounds, the outing is expected to break all previous attendance records; prove the banner event of them all in its 17th consecutive year.

Few menus boast the wide variety served up by restaurateurs. In addition to some of the finest eating in the area, the outing also offers awards, games, dancing and entertainment.

As usual, proceeds of the fall outing will be used to benefit various charities, and the general public is expected to support the event in record numbers.

Watermelons were plentiful in Massachusetts as early as 1629.

Community College Plays Important Role in Education

(This is the first in a series of five general articles on the role of the community college as prepared by the educational staff at Ulster County Community College.)

The community college today is the liveliest, most talked about development in the field of higher education.

Born in the years immediately following World War II, this baby of the post-secondary school family now is the lustiest, fastest growing member.

What is a community college like Ulster County Community College? First of all it is clearly a community institution. It is in and of the community. It draws upon the history, traditions, personnel, problems, assets and needs of the community, and it has a declared role clearly understood by the administration, faculty, students and citizenry.

A community college's offerings include two year transfer programs for those who plan to continue for the baccalaureate degree, and 2-year technical and occupational curricula for those who desire to prepare for direct employment after attending the college. The college also sponsors short courses, institutes, conferences, clinics, forums, concerts, exhibits, surveys and continuing education. All are related to community needs.

College Objectives
Against this broad background, the faculty, administration and trustees of Ulster County Community College have developed and adopted these objectives for the college.

Development of comprehensive full and part time, day and evening programs, to meet the wide range of interests and needs of high school graduates of the area served by the College.

Development of high quality Associate Degree transfer curricula appropriate for those students who are so motivated and who are qualified for completion of a two year sequence of study at Ulster County Community College and then transfer to a four year college for completion of requirements for the baccalaureate degree in a wide variety of general and specialized fields.

Development of a broad range of high quality Associate Degree technical and occupationally oriented curricula appropriate for students of varied abilities, interests and aspirations to promote vocational competency and to prepare them for meaningful employment in the vast number of new and complex semi-professional and technical jobs rising out of our automated, scientific and technological age.

Development of such non-degree programs of varying lengths and such special non-credit courses or course sequences as are appropriate for members of the community to meet their needs and desires for educational or occupational advancement, for personal enrichment, or for self-development.

Development of such exhibitions, concerts, institutes, seminars, symposia, forums, and special programs as are of interest to special segments of the community or to the community as a whole.

Development of the environment and experiences which will promote the student's individual growth and social responsibility, foster the integration of knowledge, proficiency and attitudes, and encourage each student to perform at the highest standard consistent with his ability.

Development of counseling, guidance and advisement services which will enable students to choose appropriate programs and to make progress in those programs, and to resolve scholastic, vocational and personal problems.

Development of a varied program of growth experiences in co-curricular cultural, social and athletic programs to supplement the academic and learning experiences of the classroom, the laboratory and the library.

A democratic society — like the one in the United States — needs well-educated, intelligent people. Helping to so educate the public is the goal of the community college. It also aspires to be not only democratic in its purpose but democratic in its operations. It is economical in its cost to the student and his family, accessible geographically and socially to the citizens of the community, and liberal in its admission policies. Its services can be utilized by learners with varied abilities and ambitions. Truly this is democracy's college serving the broadest possible spectrum of the people.

Over 750 Colleges
This community college is neither a junior college aspiring to grow to senior status nor an educational institution with a stunted growth. It is a different, new type of institution, its worth being dramatically demonstrated by the existence of over 750 of these institutions throughout the land and approximately 50 new ones open each September.

It proposes to serve all the community's citizens and is qualified to provide extraordinary diversity and flexibility in higher education.

For years there has been public education for the first 12 years for all youth who need and can profit by it. Now, with science and technology making such rapid strides in the space age, higher education is becoming increasingly more important. Consequently, it is becoming readily apparent that education through the 13th and 14th years should be available in the community on the same basis as that for the elementary and secondary years. This educational opportunity has become available through the community college.

The existence of a readily available community college education contributes to the population of higher education. That is because it brings higher education within the reach of all in the community who wish it and who possess the ability to profit by it. The community college contributes to the democratization of higher education by making college attendance possible where it otherwise would have been denied.

Low in Cost
As low in cost as possible, the community college is financially accessible to as large a proportion of potential students as possible. One important example of this is the elimination of room and board—one of the major expenses of college attendance. With a community college, a student can obtain a higher education while continuing to live at home. Financing college expenses by part-time work also is possible.

A community college also enables a student to take his college education on a part-time basis over a longer period while working full-time. For those working up to technical positions in large companies and corporations, this type college also offers a much more functional method of combining work experience and education for advancement.

The admission requirement of the typical community college are liberal in philosophy as well as in practice. Acceptance of students, with a wide range of goals, aspirations and academic ability is a conscious, planned admissions policy rather than a happenstance.

This policy is based on the educational philosophy that the community college should develop a program to meet the needs of youth and adults of the community.

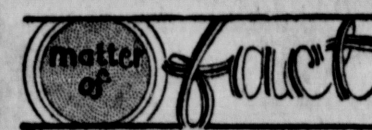

Today we are moving toward more explicit recognition of the diversity of our higher educational institutions. An important ingredient in this diversity is the community college. As these colleges increase in the future they will take care of a substantial percentage of the future college population. In the foreseeable future this could be as high as 70 per cent of all who enter college for the first time.

The community college has come of age and has a unique higher education offering to make. It serves the community which supports it and it also offers an educational opportunity to many who would otherwise not have the chance. (Tomorrow's article will outline the origin of the community college).

Receives Seedlings Blanks

The District Office of the New York State Conservation Department in Middletown has just received the order blanks for seedlings to be planted in the spring of 1967, according to S. G. Bascom, district director. These seedlings are sold in thousands and lot groups. Depending upon the species, a thousand trees will plant about an acre of land. To get a choice of species, the trees should be ordered as early as possible. In order to be sure to get the tree species wanted, orders should be placed before Jan. 1. Orders will be received, however, up to April 15, 1967. For order blanks to plant in Orange, Rockland, Sullivan or Ulster Counties, or for further information, the District Office of the Conservation Department, Box D, Middletown, may be contacted.

Eleven per cent of all the automobiles in the United States are registered in California.

If you want your garden to have the sweet scent of perfume, then try an outdoor form of gardenia. This flower, known as "Gardenia jasminoides," is more hardy than the gardenia of florists and is common in warmer parts of the U.S. The shrub is 6 to 8 ft. high and produces its very fragrant white flowers in midsummer. No other plant of outdoor culture is so spicy and fragrant.

Superintendent Benjamin H. Davis of Roosevelt-Vanderbilt National Historic Sites announced today that the total number of visitors through the Home of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Vanderbilt Mansion from June 13, through Labor Day totaled 209,404 and 90,389 respectively. This is a decrease of 11,271 at the Roosevelt Home and an increase of 23,177 at the Vanderbilt Mansion over the same period last year. The increase at Vanderbilt is largely due to the fact that the 50-cent ticket being sold at either of the Sites will admit the bearer into the other on the date stamped. With the passing of Labor Day, the visiting hours at the Home of Franklin D. Roosevelt Na-

TO HEAD ELECTION DRIVE—Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller discusses his reelection campaign with Mrs. Thomas J. Hanrahan of Rosendale, chairman of the "Housewives for the Rockefeller Team Committee" in Ulster County. County leaders of the statewide housewives campaign committee met with the Republican governor recently at his state campaign headquarters in New York Hilton Hotel, to map plans for informing every woman voter in the state of the eight-year Rockefeller Administration record.

Violence Erupts Second Straight Night in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Racial violence-accented with relieving marches—erupted in a predominantly Negro area of Atlanta for two straight nights.

Injuries were light in the rioting that continued until calm was restored early today. Several arrests were made.

Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. threw open the doors of his office and appealed for Negro leaders to present their problems and possible solutions to the violence.

Allen, who waded into the middle of riots in his city Tuesday and Saturday, rushed to the scene again Sunday night after a blazing fire bomb signaled the beginning of more violence.

Only a few hours earlier he had offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person responsible for the death of Hubert Verner, 16.

Sporadic violence punctured the rioting Sunday night and intermittently fractured a volatile, unspoken truce brought about largely through the efforts of Negro and white ministers and social workers.

The Saturday night rioting, several miles away from that of Tuesday, was spawned by the death of Verner and the wounding of a companion, Roy Milton Wright, also 16.

Investigators reported a car carrying a white man and a white woman had slowly passed when shots rang out felling the youths.

Witnesses' accounts led officers to believe the gunman apparently thought his companion had been insulted by Verner and Wright.

Police Sgt. M. J. Spears, 42, quickly arrived to probe the shooting. He was talking to a crowd of Negroes when he was felled by what officers first said was a shot from the crowd but later termed only as an object.

At Baptist Church
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is the first chief executive in nearly 14 years to worship at Washington's First Baptist Church.

The President went to church there Sunday with evangelist Billy Graham, a weekend guest at the White House. Mrs. Johnson, daughter Lynda and Graham's son, Franklin, 14, went, too.

100,000 Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Indonesian ambassador to the United States says he thinks his country's wave of anti-Communist killings was used as a cover for other murders.

The ambassador, L.N. Pilar, estimated Sunday that about 100,000 persons — not as many as 600,000 — were killed in the aftermath of last October's attempted Communist takeover.

Vertical-Takeoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — A low-speed aircraft boosted from the ground by a blast of compressed air is seen by some engineers and scientists as a possible solution to some mass transit problems.

The aeronautics experts recommended at a meeting that such a vertical-takeoff aircraft be tested.

The Defense Department says the Air Force version of the controversial F111A all-purpose plane will be delivered to combat units next year and that production is on schedule.

Kennedy Praises Ticket, Promises Late Active Role

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy praised the Democratic state ticket Sunday and promised he will take an active part in the crucial last 2½ weeks of campaigning.

Kennedy said his own aides will do staff work for the ticket, headed by City Council President Frank D. O'Connor running for governor.

The senator called Howard J. Samuels, the candidate for lieutenant governor, a "remarkable man" and said he adds "tremendously to the strength of the ticket."

Kennedy said there was no truth to reports that he had been cool toward Samuels, and he denied he had opposed nomination of the Canandaigua industrialist at last week's Democratic state convention.

O'Connor said Stephen E. Smith, Kennedy's brother-in-law, is moving into the Commodore Hotel today as campaign coordinator for the state ticket. O'Connor added that Smith will be helped by William J. VANDEN Heuvel, another Kennedy aide, and "all the best brains from Sen. Kennedy's staff."

College of Cardinals

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Roman Catholicism's College of Cardinals may be turned into an elected representative body, with the top bishop of each nation serving a limited term, according to an authoritative report here today.

The Turin archdiocese weekly II Nostro Tempo hinted that such a plan was under study at the Vatican. Such a change would throw out the centuries-old system in which popes choose cardinals for life, through consistories called from time to time.

Hearing on Drug Charge

Charged with illegal possession of drugs, Joseph Orson Luis, 28, of Haven Road, Woodbourne, was arrested Saturday by BCI Investigator Michael Mahoney of the Ellenville detail. Note Housewives For Rockefeller Organized Here

A county-wide committee of housewives has been organized in Ulster County to work for the re-election of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, and Mrs. Thomas J. Hanrahan of Rosendale has been named by the governor as the committee chairman.

Recently Mrs. Hanrahan, and other county chairmen of the "Housewives for the Rockefeller Team Committee", met with Governor Rockefeller at his New York City campaign headquarters to work out plans for the committee, and all pledged to do everything to inform every woman in the state of the Rockefeller record of accomplishment during his eight years as governor.

Working On Plans

Mrs. Hanrahan said today that she is currently working to establish "Housewives for Rockefeller" committees in every town in the county, as well as the City of Kingston, and she has been receiving enthusiastic support for the governor throughout the county.

The committee will be holding its first county-wide meeting Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston, and Mrs. Hanrahan is urging every woman in the county who is interested in taking an active part in working for the reelection of Governor Rockefeller to attend the meeting at 8 p. m. in the hotel's Civic Room.

Mrs. Hanrahan, who resides in Parkcrest Estates in Rosendale with her husband and two children, has been most active in local affairs in her home town, as well as various Republican activities in the county. Mrs. Hanrahan is a member of the Woman's Club of Rosendale, and the Ulster County Woman's Republican Club.

Active in Scouting

She is also a den mother of Cub Scout Pack 17 Tillson, and is on the Board of Christian Education of Fair Street Reformed Church. Mrs. Hanrahan was educated at the Edgewood Park Junior College at Briarcliff Manor, and the State University at New Paltz. Her husband is employed as a salesman for Bert Bishop, Inc., Kingston.

Bodenweber Is Named to BPW

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan today announced appointment of William K. Bodenweber, of 49 West O'Reilly Street, to the Board of Public Works.

A graduate of local schools, Bodenweber served as Ninth Ward alderman for two terms in the 1950's. He succeeds Joseph A. Fassbender, who has been appointed to the board in 1962 by Mayor John J. Schwenk.

Bodenweber's term is for four years and became effective Sept. 8. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, Kingston Lions Club and the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church. He had served in the U.S. Army in World War 2.

His terms as aldermen were during the administration of former Mayor Edwin F. Radel. He operates the East O'Reilly Street Laundromat.

800 GE Employees Stage Walkout

HUDSON FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Approximately 800 employees at General Electric Co. plants here and in nearby Fort Edward remained off the job today to protest alleged grievances, union officials said.

The workers, represented by Local 332 of the United Electrical Workers, picketed the plants Sunday.

About 1,900 persons are employed at the plants. The background of the walkout, union officials said, included the company's disciplinary action against two employees who allegedly instigated an earlier walkout. They were suspended for one week without pay. Other grievances also were alleged.

Company spokesmen charged the walkout was illegal.

Sentence Suspended

Accused of petty larceny, Michael Cherny, 19, of Rosendale was arrested Saturday by Trooper D. H. Dymond of the Ellenville substation, on a warrant issued in July by Justice of the Peace Abram D. Smith, Town of Rochester. Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes said Cherny pleaded guilty and received a 60-day suspended jail sentence.

Charge They Didn't Pay for Gasoline

Accused of obtaining gasoline from an Albany area service station and driving away without paying for it, two young men were arrested Sunday at 5 a. m. on the State Thruway near Kingston by Trooper J. J. Syvertsen.

State Police Sergeant Henry Ganss of the Thruway detail said Trooper Syvertsen stopped a southbound car occupied by George Michalow, 19, of Elmhurst, and Witali Janczewycz, 21, of Richmond Hill.

The youths were held and later turned over to Albany authorities to face charges of petty larceny, according to Sergeant Ganss. An alarm had been sent out for the pair after Albany police were notified of the incident.

PASSENGER SERVICE

The California Public Utility Commission has done an amazing thing.

In denying a plea by the Southern Pacific Railroad to abandon its famed overnight train, the Lark, between Los Angeles and San Francisco, the commission suggested to the railroad that it make a greater effort to attract passengers.

Now, this is advice that is highly praiseworthy, if for no other reason than it makes sense.

Anyone who has ridden on a train in the last few years can hardly have failed to notice that methods of dissuading passengers from ever doing it again have ranged from simple failure to provide first-class service to heights of passenger inconvenience and discomfort that approach sheer genius.

Admittedly, the railroads have been riding rough financial roadbeds, and the problems they face are many and big.

But one cause of steadily dwindling passenger business that they often fail to mention is that in many, many instances passengers have practically been invited to stay off trains.

Even the most dedicated train buff becomes discouraged when he finds that a train can no longer take him where he wants to go—at least not without hardy adventures rivaling those encountered by Christopher Columbus.

THOSE BEDTIME BLUES

Many fathers and mothers of young children regard the nightly struggle to get them to bed at "bedtime" as one of parenthood's most onerous chores. Children seem to get a second wind in the evening, and balk at interrupting their play for the prosaic business of getting off to bed.

Comes now Dr. Hugh Jolly, a leading British child specialist, with the view that getting the children to bed at a specified early hour each night is not really very important. He chides doctors and patients for clinging to the "misconception" that the child "needs a specific number of hours' sleep each night."

Parents may be inclined to resent this as undermining them in an already difficult task. But there is another, we think a more sensible, response. Why not conclude that Dr. Jolly's view justifies relaxing and enjoying young offspring without worrying overmuch if they are active half an hour past their stated bedtime? That probably wouldn't hurt the children's health, and it might make life more pleasant for their parents.

AHEAD OF THE BULLDOZER

Recently Secretary of the Interior Udall held a news conference in which he discussed the unending race between the spread of man's works and the retention of open land for public recreational purposes. Though his remarks attracted relatively little attention, what he said was of significance to all of us.

Udall disclosed, on the basis of a study made by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, that land is now being set aside for public use at a faster rate than it is being gobbled up by the bulldozers. He said that 1.25 million acres of public recreation lands were acquired during the past fiscal year, as compared with 1.17 million acres in the previous year. Doubtless the pace will slacken, since there is only so much open land left. But it is heartening to know that our generation is doing its part to preserve some of America's natural heritage for future generations.

AUTOMATIC MAIL SERVICE

The opening in Memphis of what is described as the nation's first automatic, self-service, drive-in post office augurs well for the future of the postal service. Is it a further indication that the Post Office department may at last be determined to make full use of modern technology to handle the swiftly rising flood of mail.

Presumably the main advantage of the automatic post office is that it will reduce costs, though it may also help speed up the processing of mail. But this development can be taken as an indication that

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

KEEP THE WORLD OPEN FOR TRANSIT

ATHENS, GREECE—If there were no other reason for fighting to prevent the Communists from seizing South Vietnam, the necessity for keeping the airways open to the great jets that come and go around the globe would be reason enough.

This is brought home to one at the busy airport of Athens, where one watches entranced as passengers move in and out bound for Cairo or Nairobi or to other points in Africa, or Tel Aviv in Israel, or to Lebanon, India, Australia or the Far East. It wasn't so very long ago that Greece was threatening to go Communist. The British were pulling out, and the Vacuum of power that threatened would surely have been filled from the north by Stalin. It was at this point that plucky Harry Truman stepped in with U.S. support. This, along with the defection of Tito's Yugoslavia from the Moscow international, saved the Greeks.

If the Communists had taken over, one most important West-East route would have been left to the mercy of Cold War conspirators who have no interest in promoting mobility in the world save as it serves their own interests. The noteworthy thing is that when you purchase a ticket to go from western Europe to Tokyo in Japan, or to Taiwan, you don't go across Red China. The Siberian transit is possible, but it is not easy. So you go far to the south, around the "hinge" in Southeast Asia.

Today the Asian peninsula that juts down to Singapore and Malaysia, pointing toward Australia, is threatened by the Communists as Greece was threatened in the late Nineteen Forties. The South Vietnamese are the "stoppers." If they cave in, the squeeze would be on every other country in the area. The "domino theory" is not necessarily relevant, but to keep it from applying, a further stand against the Communists would have to be taken in Thailand. Luckily, Lyndon Johnson, like Harry Truman before him, has had the common sense to know that the U.S. cannot lightly stand aside and permit the lifelines around the world to be cut in two from the "Communist North." The great jets must be kept flying.

This ought to be the veriest ABC. But I find that when I offer this type of analysis of world politics, I get blank looks of incomprehension. Seemingly, nobody studies the history of the Nineteenth Century from the geopolitical standpoint anymore. When the world was linked from West to East by sea, it was necessary to keep the Mediterranean open at Gibraltar, Suez and Aden, and it was necessary to hold Singapore, at the southeast Asian hinge. The British did this for a full century and more, keeping guard over the ports and coaling stations where the old Peninsula and Orient steamships put in.

In an admirable phrase, Edgar Ansel Mower spoke of the "blind amphibious instinct of the British." The Nineteenth Century enemies of mobility resented this instinct, notably the French under Napoleon, the Imperial Russians, and the semi-landlocked Germans. Kipling warned of the Russian Bear's plans to drive to the "warm seas" through the Middle East or Constantinople. The British fought in Spain to keep the western end of the Mediterranean from falling to Napoleon, and they fought two wars in France and the Middle East to keep the Germans from "owning" the globe from North to South. Again, it was fear of Russian expansion that impelled Disraeli to negotiate with Turkey for control of Cyprus.

Today, in the jet age, the realities are the same, except that it is the great air terminals that have succeeded Gibraltar, Suez, Aden, and Singapore. If or when the great airports should be flanked by a southward-driving Moscow or Red China, it would be equivalent to the capture of Constantinople by the Turks in 1453. This closed the door to the East, cutting the world in two as the Communists are trying to cut it now.

This column has been written while waiting in the airport, with the great jets screaming as they take-off for Beirut and Cairo and Frankfurt and other savory-sounding places. It is "primer stuff," but the western schools seem to have thrown away their primers. Moreover, statesmen like England's Harold Wilson and America's Lyndon Johnson never mention the primer verities when they talk about stopping the Communists. They speak only in moralistic terms. But in my book, world mobility is a moral issue in itself, for without it many of our liberties would shrivel away.

THE WELL CHILD

Children Alone in Cars Are Beset With Dangers

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A mother left her three children, all under 5, in her auto while she gave a pint of blood to a blood bank. She remembered to shut off the motor but when she came back to the auto the children were dead.

As a safety precaution she had closed all the windows and locked the doors. The children died of suffocation. One small child alone might have survived but three used up the available oxygen at an accelerated rate. Abandoned refrigerators are not the only way small children can be asphyxiated.

Let us suppose for a moment that, when the mother return to the car, the children were unconscious, but not dead. What steps would be necessary to revive them? With others helping her, they should first have been placed upward on the ground and examined for the three signs of asphyxia—unconsciousness, a bluish tinge of the lips and a rolling backward of the eyes.

Kneeling beside the victim the rescuer should determine whether he is breathing. If not, artificial respiration should be started at once.

The simplest and most effective means is for the rescuer to place his mouth over that of the victim, pinch his nostrils shut and blow. For babies or very young children you can cover both the nose and mouth with your mouth. After blowing, remove your mouth and listen for a rush of returning air. If you don't hear it there may be an obstruction in his air passage. Slap him on the back to dislodge any foreign body, make sure the neck is extended and try again. When the victim starts breathing he should be allowed to inhale pure oxygen, if any is available.

If, when he is found, the victim is breathing but unconscious, you should determine whether his heart is beating. If it is not, you should exert moderate pressure over the breastbone about once every second. Too heavy a pressure can fracture the ribs, so this maneuver should be done only by someone who has had experience with it.

Since the brain will not survive more than seven minutes without oxygen, attempts at resuscitation beyond this period are not likely to do any good.

automatic mail-handling machinery is beginning to come into its own.

At present much of the mail is still handled by methods not much different from those in use many years ago. Generally speaking, it is only in the large cities that the capacity of automatic equipment to speed up the mail has been utilized to anything like the extent possible. Yet this offers the best promise for much-needed improvement in service. Let us hope that this promise will be fulfilled.

Five times as many Cuban women work in the fields as did before the 1959 revolution—which may account for waning revolutionary fervor on the distaff side.

As If Things Aren't Difficult Enough!

Washington News

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — No one really knows how the economic issue — high interest rates and rising prices — will cut at election time. But many voters today seem disposed to assign blame primarily to President Johnson and, in lesser part, to unions linked with well-publicized, wage-boosting strikes.

A reading of varied judgments of the professional economists suggests that these attitudes vastly oversimplify the situation. Some of the real complexities deserve another look even though voters most likely will act upon the simplicities — for instance, the rising cost of bread or mayonnaise — if they are aroused enough to act on this issue at all.

The evidence indicates that, without absolving any of those charged in the simple popular indictment (including the President), the blame for the present boiling-point economy can safely be distributed rather widely. Though consumer prices in 1966 have risen three times as fast as the average of the past several years, the buying public has not turned cautious in its spending habits. Personal savings are down markedly, and personal consumption outlays are at an all-time high.

In one eastern city, the first seven months of 1966 saw dealers selling more television sets, radios, air conditioners, refrigerators, freezers and other appliances than they did in 1965. The story is largely the same in most major markets.

The widely noted exceptions, of course, are in sales of automobiles and housing. And even in the automotive field, retail sales have firmed recently, and the Commerce Department reports buyers' intentions about as high for the next 10 months as for the comparable period (a record level) last year.

Housing is something else, admittedly crimped by high interest rates which have sluiced off vital mortgage money.

But the high rates cannot be given all the blame. In California, experts estimate there may be 120,000 unsold houses built well before the interest rate crisis. Business journals say Dallas last year had vacancies in a fourth of its apartments financed by federally insured loans. Less striking but still high vacancy rates prevailed elsewhere in the Southwest and California. Candid builders and lenders say these areas are badly overbuilt. The market prospect was misread.

The costly airline wage settlement exacted by the Machinists' union drew the public's ire and may have predisposed many Americans to look with disfavor on the high-wage bids sure to be advanced by unions in several major industries due for negotiations in the next 12 months.

Yet, before the airline milestone, expensive settlements earlier had been worked out in trucking, construction and some other already high-wage fields. And — a sleeper almost totally unappreciated by the buying and voting public — in 1966 record numbers of workers are quietly getting deferred wage increases stipulated in still-operative long-term contracts in such industries as steel, automotive, aircraft, machinery, railroads.

Some 43 per cent of the affected workers are getting at least 10 cents an hour extra. Furthermore, the wages of some 2 million U. S. workers more than half of them members of the United Auto Workers, are subject to escalation this year under cost-of-living increases.

In just one case, General Motors, cost-of-living hikes have added 79 cents an hour to the average worker's pay since 1948 — an amount representing a fourth of his basic hourly wage.

But, if many unions have been pressing hard on the wage front, industry in countless cases has been shoving prices upward. Business managers mostly ignored a basic part of the President's economic guideposts — price cuts where above-average efficiency permitted. And business has plumped very heavily for new plant and equipment despite the President's call for restraint. These record outlays have steamed up the economy greatly.

Lyndon Johnson, fueling a war and the Great Society, may be trying to do too much—and acting too slowly to correct this course. Apparently, however, a great many other Americans are also asking the economy to do too much at one time.

Certain newspaper stories bring a special glow to the reader. The old underpaid bank teller who goes out to lunch with $100,000 and sends a get-well card to his boss from Pago Pago; the dying child who outlives the doctors; the pious governor caught in a vice raid; the snobbish society matron, who falls into a swimming pool; the Rolls Royce stalled on the railroad tracks; the racketeer judge in jail; the holdup men who learn, too late, that they parked the car in a tow-away zone.

Last week I read one and placed a call to Percy Harrison in Lincolnshire, England. Mr. Harrison, I learned, has no telephone. He will need a switchboard. He won a soccer pool. Perce placed a bet on British football and won $247,399 tax free. The entrancing part of the story is that Mr. Harrison is not overly bright. He never saw a game.

For years, he has been a fertilizer mixer. This is pure anti-Shalimar. "I was the bloke who pushed the button to mix the fertilizer," he said. "If the mix was wrong, it was my fault." Perce was told that, if he didn't give proper notice, the fertilizer tycoons can keep the last week's salary they owe him. "If they want to keep the lot," he said, "they can keep it."

This is pretty generous of a bloke who has been knee-deep in the stuff for twenty years. It has class. Two weeks ago, Harrison asked his wife, Maude, a sweet woman who still has some upper teeth, if she minded if he bet a bit of the weekly lolly in the pool. She was all for it. So Perce tossed a couple of shillings in and won 14 shillings.

To win the big prize, the bettor must pick eight tie games out of 50 soccer matches. Knowing nothing of the game, Perce sat down the following week and asked his wife if she could think of any lucky numbers. She rattled off eight, and Perce, a sport to the core, marked them down. In fact, he made two hits. One for 5 shillings; one for 3 shillings, 9 pence. So Maude came up with two sets of numbers while she shopped the dishes.

The five shillings bet proved that Maude was or the wrong wave length. However, in the 3 shilling, 9 pence job, she called eight of the nine tie games in the league. When the news came in on the telly, Maude was thrilled and kissed and hugged her husband although he had dreamed up the numbers.

Mr. Harrison was shook proper. He lives in a cottage which cost $1300, on which he owes $80, and it was enough to make a man think. So he took a walk through the narrow streets of Lincolnshire. "I felt a bit of a shiver come over me," he said. "I felt as if somebody was going to come up behind me and crown me."

Then he went home and Maude put the tea cozy on the pot, and she explained that shiver or no, he was now a proper gent. The news papers began to call him for interviews, and the pool operators summoned him and Maude to London to pick up his money. Old Perce had never been to London, and he felt a bit out of it when those officials in their black derbies and furred umbrellas escorted him to fashionable Grosvenor House.

There, they had telly cameras and lights and applause. Actress Glynis Johns handed Perce the check and he looked as stiff as an iced mackerel. He and Maude got out of London as quick as was proper. At Lincolnshire, they got off the train and headed for the cottage near Gainsborough. The check was for $38,356 pounds, 16 shillings, or $947,399.

This is enough to uncork a man. He began to tell Maude about how he always dreamed of buying a nice little place near York, where Perce was born. It would be a farm, sort of. He and his teenage son could raise pigs "and a few beasts." Maude thought it would be divoon.

Then too, they have three married daughters who are having a bit of a struggle, and another "who is going strong with a bloke." Perce and Maude sat at the table and began to break the near - million into shares. So much for that one. A new house instead of a cheesy flat for another. And so on. The figures came out lovely.

Maude and Perce will have enough to live on without ever lifting a finger the rest of their lives. Mrs. Harrison can treat herself to a solid gold set of teeth if she's a mind to. "It's a bit late for me," Perce said sadly. "I'm not right, my morning. I get pains in me chest and wheeze all night long." Silly boy. All he has to do is go out and buy a doctor.

Maude has only one problem. It isn't counting it that bothers her. Perce has bet twice on the football pools. She'd like him to stop.

North Viets Seem to Want War End, Fear Loss of Face

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — How to bring peace in Viet Nam without suffering the humiliation of seeming to surrender is bothering the North Viet Nam government just now, as well as the governments of Red China and the Soviet Union.

Since the Chinese Foreign Minister, Marshal Chen Yi, indicated two weeks ago that last things in the world that Red China wants is war with the United States, there have been other signs that maybe peace was at last coming to be recognized as a more desirable way to live than under the pressures of war or threats of war.

But notwithstanding the intimations and the reports that give an impression of a desire to make peace, the Peiping government and the Hanoi government now are busily denouncing any such idea as out of the question—except on their own terms.

These maneuvers are by no means surprising. No adversary in the midst of a military conflict will ever indicate publicly a readiness to give in.

More Under Cover

But there is more than meets the eye in the behavior of the diplomats in Peiping, Moscow and Hanoi, as well as in Tokyo. The present dialogue in the press began when the Red Chinese foreign minister informally explained to the editor of a Viennese newspaper that he could not see any sense in a war between Red China and the United States. This was published in "U. S. News and World Report" about 10 days ago. Confirmation came this week in a report from Tokyo quoting an 11-member group of Japanese public men as having been told by the same high official of the Peiping government of a desire to avoid any war between Red China and the United States.

But these statements may have unwittingly created an impression of weakness on the part of the Peiping regime and an intention to start peace negotiations. Immediately, the Red Chinese Ambassador in Warsaw — which has been the meeting place for conferences with the American Ambassador for several years — pronounced any such move to end the war in Viet Nam as out of the question. Some members of the Japanese Mission, moreover, who were still in Peiping quickly denied that they had been given any indications of a willingness on the part of Red China to negotiate with the United States on Viet Nam. This was a bitter pill for the Japanese legislators to swallow, as they had been quoted in their own press in Tokyo only a day or so before as saying that "China is not entirely averse to a negotiated settlement in Viet Nam."

It all has a familiar ring in diplomatic history. Evidently the Red Chinese government found itself in somewhat the same position that the United States government did some months ago when it openly acknowledged it had sought peace through various intermediaries. The impression conveyed was that the American government was losing some of its resoluteness in fighting the war.

The Red Chinese are anxious to impress the Hanoi government that they are standing behind it. Hence, any talk of peace out in the open is risky, and the Peiping government is determined to erase any misconception that they have backed away from the North Viet Nam government.

Puts Up Good Front
The position of the Soviet Union is somewhat analogous. It keeps on saying that the United States must, in effect, surrender. But the purpose of such comments is to retain the good will and friendship of the North Viet Nam government and to take advantage of any retreat by the Red Chinese out of the Viet Nam dilemma.

Yet the fact remains that the Hanoi government cannot keep up the war without the help of both Red China and the Soviet Union, and there is no possibility of a negotiated peace by exchange of statements openly made in the press.

So the whole situation resolves itself into a stalemate, which doesn't necessarily mean an immediate withdrawal of American troops or of communist aid. It does mean that behind the scenes in diplomacy a program might well be worked out that calls for a tapering off of hostilities and an eventual armistice which maintains the dividing line between North and South Viet Nam that was established by the agreement consummated in Geneva in 1954. Pledges to avoid aggression would doubtless be given by the governments at Hanoi and Saigon, and this would afford an opportunity for a gradual withdrawal of American and North Vietnamese troops.

Girl Scouts Ask Volunteers Take Leadership Jobs

With school open and fall activities beginning next week, the Girl Scout Service Team is looking for leaders for Girl Scout and Brownie troops in Woodstock and West Hurley. Those new to the area; those who lived here for some time; anyone with a daughter or two in the second through sixth grades or even with none at all; those whose children are older and who are free to give time to a younger group of girls, are urged to volunteer.

Brownies are second and third graders, learning as a group to be Ready Helpers, Discoverers and Friend Makers. Junior Girl Scouts are fourth, fifth and sixth graders working on the Sign of the Arrow and Sign of the Star in the fields of homemaking, arts and crafts, the out-of-doors, and international friendship.

Leaders are needed whether they have had previous experience with Girl Scouts or none at all. For the individual Girl Scout leader and assistant leader, there is a Neighborhood Association which provides opportunities for training in the Girl Scout program and continuing assistance throughout the year. The Association meets once a month for a business meeting and workshops, to exchange program ideas and to plan intertroop activities.

The Service Team consists of Mrs. William Fisher, chairman; Mrs. David Fox, troop consultant; and as Troop Organizers: Mrs. Robert Ross for West Hurley and Mrs. Harry Sanger and Mrs. Roy Irving for Woodstock. Those who would like to volunteer their services or enroll a daughter in a troop, are invited.

Junior High School girls take part in the Cadette program, led by Mrs. Charles Orr, and the Senior Girl Scout troop is led by Mrs. P. DiSalvo. Both leaders will be available to accept new members in their troops.

The Service Team also reminded mothers of Scouts of the Uniform Exchange locally. Mothers of youngsters who were Girl Scouts and Brownies last year are asked to pass on any uniforms they may have to another girl. A Uniform Exchange is provided for all Woodstock and West Hurley Scouts by Mrs. Edouard Blatter of West Hurley.

Moroccan Slides Program Slated

A colorful program of slides on Morocco will be presented by Joseph Trindle and his wife, Dr. Margaret Trindle, for members of the Lutheran Church Women of Christ's Lutheran Church, Woodstock, next week.

The husband and wife team will also speak on their work in Morocco at the monthly meeting of the group, scheduled Sept. 20 at 8 p. m. in the fellowship hall of the church, Mill Hill Road.

The Trindles, who now live in Woodstock, first went to Morocco in 1954 to perform missionary work; returned to this country two years later. Within a year, they returned to Morocco and, this time, stayed on for nine more years to continue missionary work and language studies.

Following the 1960 earthquake in Agadir, they took up residence there to help care for refugee children and eventually opened a pediatrics clinic in that city. Although the clinic flourished, the Trindles and their four children returned to the United States last year. Joseph Trindle is presently employed by Rotron Manufacturing Company here and Dr. Trindle maintains a pediatrics office on Elwyn Lane. Eventually, however, the family hopes to return to Agadir to continue missionary work.

Jury Recommends Kinsey Freedom In Wife's Death

MIWANZA, Tanzania (AP) —

The two-man jury of a Tanzanian court recommended today that American Peace Corps volunteer Bill Haywood Kinsey be found innocent of murdering his wife, Peverley. The final verdict is up to the presiding judge.

The two, an American and an African, both found that Mrs. Kinsey, 23, died March 27 as a result of an accidental fall from a rock.

Kinsey, 25, of Washington, N.C., has been on trial for his life for 15 days. The prosecution alleged that Kinsey bludgeoned Peverley to death with a length of iron pipe during a picnic on Impala Hill, two miles from the Tanzanian town of Maswa where they both taught school. Peverley was from Riverside, Conn.

The assessors, as the jurors are known, told the court there was no evidence to support the prosecution's contention that Peverley had been unfaithful to her husband that this was a motive for the alleged crime.

"I find the accused not guilty of the charge against him," declared assessor Gail Bagley, 46, a soil conservation expert of Elsbury, Mo. "My opinion is that it was an obvious accident beyond any doubt."

"I believe the accused not guilty and there should be a clear acquittal on the ground of accident," declared the second assessor, Tanzanian economist Fred Mugobi, 27. "I believe the fall took place as the accused has said."

Judge Harold Platt, a Briton, told the court he would give his verdict on Saturday.

Attends Conference

Paul L. DeLisio of Woodstock is participating in a New York Life Insurance Conference at Orr's Island, Me., which began Saturday, according to Mark Crowley, general manager of the Poughkeepsie office of the insurance firm.

This conference is composed of field underwriters from the Poughkeepsie general office. DeLisio qualified for attendance through production in July and August.

Give Recognition To Local Dealer On Auto Rooms

Bob Beaumont, Inc., local Chrysler-Plymouth automobile dealer on Albany Avenue, recently received substantial favorable publicity relating to its outdoor used car showroom, just completed.

In a nationally distributed color brochure, and in the trade press, Childers Outdoor Showrooms of Houston, Texas, and the Chrysler Corp., described the new outdoor showroom that the Childers firm had constructed locally for Beaumont's Used Car Division.

"Open lots for used cars are a thing of the past," according to Childers. "Inclement weather not only discourages car inspection by prospective buyers, but adds immeasurably to maintenance and cleaning costs of inventory autos. Besides," Childers said, "a car on display is not particularly attractive if it is dirty and otherwise ill-appearing."

The outdoor used car showroom, according to Beaumont, takes in 10,000 square feet of display area and affords protection from rain, snow and the hot sun. Overhead lighting—which is quite ample—performs the double function of improving visibility for the car shopper—as well as showing the premises to good advantage to the passing public. The show area, too, becomes a credit to the community since Kingston is in the front ranks of small cities with such a completed, tax-producing asset.

"Our used car business has substantially improved," said Beaumont, "but equally important to our organization is the fact that our customers can shop and view the cars in comfort and safety."

Association Scores

Holsteins in County

The herds of seven Registered Holstein breeders in Ulster County have been scored for body type by Charles J. Howe, Hunbridge, Vt., staff classifier for the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The results are as follows:

Accord—Wayne F. Kelder—74 animals classified, of which nine were rated very good, 27 good plus and 38 good.

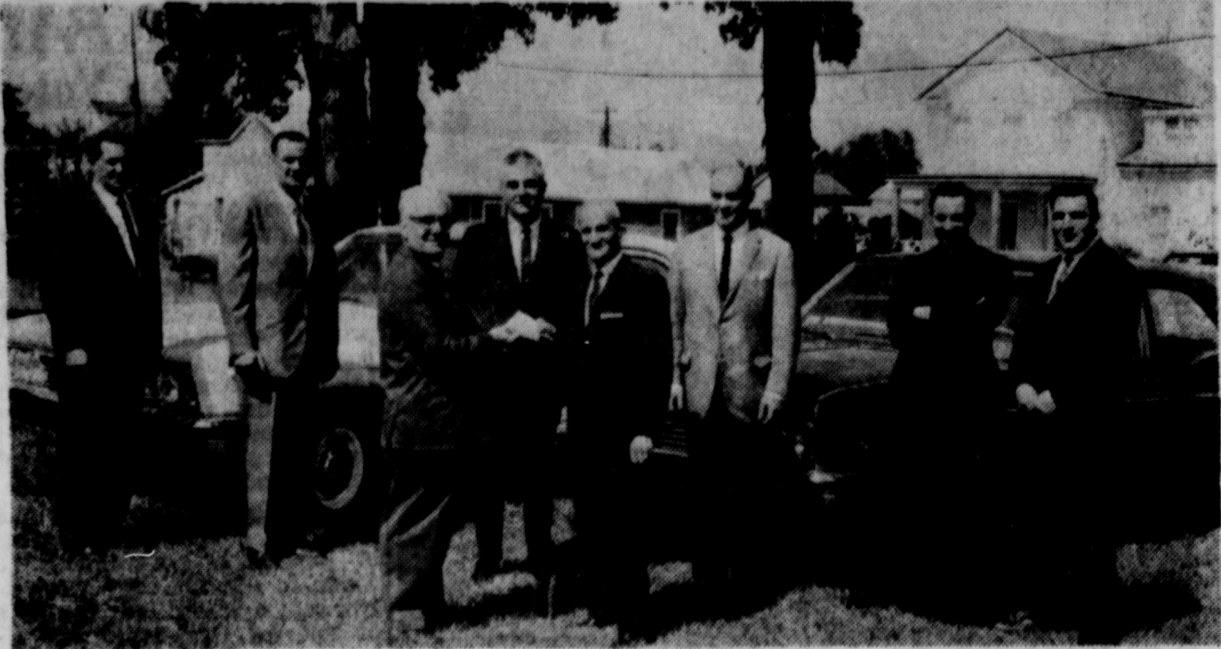

Kerkonkson—Philip H. Davis—47 animals classified, of which three were rated very good, 29 good plus and 13 good.

Stone Ridge—S. Robert Kelder—75 animals classified, with three reported very good, 26 good plus and 46 good; Ridgely Farms—98 animals classified, of which two rated excellent, 16 very good, 42 good plus and seven good.

Wallkill—Ralph W. Aumick—nine animals classified with four rated very good and five good plus; Albert V. Mayer—15 dairy animals classified, of which five received a good plus rating and nine were rated good; Edwin E. Nelson Jr.—14 animals classified, with six receiving good plus and six good.

Classification has been in continuous operation since 1929 as the official type program of the Holstein breed. It measures the physical conformation of individual animals against the theoretical perfection of the True Type cow or bull.

Information made available by the program provides detailed reference material for Holstein breeders in all sections of the country.

Valley MS Unit Schedules Dinner

More than 50 multiple sclerosis patients are expected to attend a dinner sponsored by the Mid-Hudson Valley Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society at the Old Viking Inn on Route 202 in Garnerville, next Sunday, at 7 p. m. According to an announcement by Mrs. Barbara Festa, board secretary of the chapter, invitations have been mailed to six counties—Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Sullivan and Ulster and Rockland—to all patients whose names are on file with the chapter. Additional patients who wish to attend are urged to contact chapter headquarters in West Nyack.

According to Mrs. Festa, the dinner marks the beginning of the chapter's patient service program, and is planned as an annual event each fall. In the six months since the chapter received its charter, she noted, more than 1200 doctors have been contacted for assistance in advising multiple sclerosis patients of the chapter's existence; once their number and their needs are known, it will be possible to develop a full program of services.

While current research into the cause and cure of multiple sclerosis looks promising, there is at present no substantial medical help the chapter can give to patients, Mrs. Festa said. She noted that after a percentage of the funds raised by the chapter is allocated to national research programs, the balance remains for use to benefit local patients. The opportunity to get together socially with other patients has proven of great value, she said.

All patients will attend the dinner as guests of the chapter, said Mrs. Festa. Mrs. Festa urged any patients who are interested, whether or not they have received a letter of invitation, to contact the chapter office no later than September 14 so that reservations can be made. Board members include Mrs. Elizabeth Beck of West Nyack, chapter treasurer; Nat Halpern of Nanuet; and James Raglan of West Nyack.

Industrial Association Appoints New Secretary

William K. Hayes, formerly manager of Industrial Relations with the Baltimore, Maryland Chamber of Commerce, has joined the staff of The Mid-Hudson Industrial Association as of September 6, according to Benjamin J. Van Wickler, executive secretary. He will become executive secretary of the Association when Van Wickler retires Feb. 28, 1967.

A native of Syracuse, Hayes is a graduate of Fordham University and received a law degree from George Washington University in 1963. He served on active duty as a navy officer from 1953 to 1956 and prior to his experience in Baltimore was a Labor Law Administrator with the U. S. Department of Labor in Washington. He is a member of the American Society of Association Executives and the National Industrial Council.

Koota Accused, Of 'Broad Smear' In Track Probe

NEW YORK (AP)—The Harness Racing Institute today accused Brooklyn Dist. Atty. Aaron Koota of a "broad smear" of innocent people who have aided an investigation into race-track improprieties. Koota denied it.

"Some of the leading participants in the sport have been served subpoenas to appear as expert witnesses and then mentioned in context with notorious hoodlums," the Institute said in a statement released here today.

The Institute said it was "appalled by the failure of the district attorney to protect the innocent" and said there was "danger of irreparable injury" to many aiding in the investigation.

Koota, who reportedly is looking into charges of fixed races and doped horses at some harness tracks, said he had never released publicly the names of subpoenaed witnesses.

Says Now Is Time To Buy New Home

"If you are thinking of buying a new home, now is the time to buy," the advice of Sam Hankin, one of the Hudson Valley's leading home builders. He couples his advice with the prediction that a year from now new houses will increase in price by from $1,200 to $1,500.

Hankin bases his prediction of a price rise on new houses primarily on expected increases in the cost of labor. He believes labor costs will increase both in the construction trades and in the manufacturing labor of building material producers. The latter increases will, in turn, increase the costs of materials.

Many on Market

"The present time is a good time to buy a home," Hankin said, "because there are a full range of houses on the market, and despite the rumors of tight money, there is still money available in the community for new homes." He based his latter statement on the fact of prior monetary commitments already in effect on the new homes on the market or nearing the completion stage.

"People planning to buy a new home shouldn't wait for a down turn in prices because a down turn just isn't in the cards," Hankin continued. In addition to higher labor costs, he stated land price increases are another factor that will force house prices upward in the future. In support of his argument, he cited the ever-increasing requirements of local townships for additional off-site improvements. Included in this category are more stringent road standards, additional drainage requirements and the installation of sidewalks and curbing.

In addition to an abundance of new homes in the market, Hankin said there is an even more abundant number of old homes and apartment units available. He estimated the current vacancy rate in apartments in Dutchess County as approximately 35 per cent. One of the principal reasons for the vacancies he stated was due to the transfer of personnel during the past year by one of the area's leading industries.

Association Official

Hankin is a former president of the Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley and at present is secretary and a director of the New York State Home Builders Association. He is also a director of the National Association of Home Builders.

Last January, contrary to the beliefs of most area home builders at that time, Hankin predicted depressed condition for homebuilding in the Hudson Valley during 1966. Actual results since then have borne out the accuracy of his early year predictions.

Conn. Man Dies In Orange Mishap
MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP)—A Hartford, Conn. man, identified as James Lawrence, 27, died today in a hospital here after being injured in a head-on collision in nearby Montgomery Sunday morning.

Hospital officials said he died of internal injuries. Three other persons were injured in the collision.

Accuse Pair of Robbery
A 31-year-old Orange County man and an 18-year-old youth were in custody today, charged with first degree robbery. They were identified by Newburgh State Police as William Fredrick, 31, and Jerry McNeill, both of Newburgh. Authorities said the pair is accused of jumping James Harrington, 35, as he entered his town of Newburgh home early Sunday with receipts from his pool room. The men allegedly took about $50, which has been recovered.

Conn. Expects Surplus
HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Connecticut is expected to end the current biennium on June 30, 1967, with an unappropriated surplus of $40.8 million, State Comptroller James J. Casey reported to Gov. John Dempsey.

Casey said Saturday the expected surplus can be attributed to the state's booming economy and departmental efficiency in government. The state comptroller said a $36.9 million surplus is expected in the general fund, with the remainder of the surplus in the highway fund.

Twins Dock

nauts in June. The dramatic pursuit triggered what should be an action-packed three days in space.

Ahead lay a 107-minute space walk and 140-minute "space stand" by Gordon, a dash to a record altitude of 863 miles and a unique experiment in which the Agena and Gemini will be tied together by a 100-foot line.

The fast maneuvering, achieved with almost no help from the ground, has two important implications for America's Apollo man to the moon program.

Important Implications

First, it simulated an emergency liftoff from the moon by two astronauts who might have to make a hasty rendezvous with an Apollo ship in lunar orbit.

Second, it demonstrated the ability of the astronauts to use their computer, inertial guidance system and radar to calculate all their maneuvers on board instead of receiving help from ground stations as earlier Gemini hunters did.

The astronauts reported only one minor problem in the rendezvous and docking exercise.

"We had some sort of a funny during rendezvous," Conrad said. "We couldn't switch antennas and on our third correction we had no elevation."

A backup system was used to do the job and after completing the docking, the pilots reported the antenna switching system, used in calculating elevation, was working.

Shortly after docking, Conrad fired the Gemini thruster rockets to push the Agena forward. Purpose of this experiment is to test the technique and accuracy of a direct contact method of determining the weight of an orbiting object—in this case the Agena.

The ground knows the precise Agena weight and officials want to see if instruments aboard Gemini II can come up with the same figure during the test.

As Gemini II moved in for rendezvous, Conrad said: "I believe I'll go ahead and brake, 1.4 miles. Three-quarters of a mile. Half a mile range right now. 400 feet. Okay, quarter of a mile."

"I've got 'em right here," Conrad said as Gemini II neared California.

Spotted Off Africa

The Gemini II astronauts first reported sighting the speeding Agena as they passed over a tracking station at Tananarive, Madagascar Republic, an island off the east coast of Africa.

Conrad steered the spacecraft and Gordon calculated maneuvers with a compact computer as Gemini II closed in on the target.

By the time Gemini II reached Australia, the distance between the two vehicles had been narrowed to about 20 miles. At this point, Conrad pitched the nose of Gemini II up and fired a large burst of power from his spacecraft thrusters.

This increased the spacecraft speed by about 96 miles an hour and put it on a collision course with the Agena.

"You're looking very good," the ground told the pilots.

"You're go for 16 dash 1." "This meant that ground calculations showed systems aboard the spacecraft were good for at least 15 orbits. The term "16 dash one" refers to a landing area in the prime recovery zone in the Atlantic east of Cape Kennedy.

Everything 'Go' in Air
Several of these "gos" are needed during a three-day mission.

Before the ambitious space flight got off the ground, there were two scrubs and a last-minute, quarter-hour delay. Once in the air, however, everything clicked with split-second precision.

"Eleven is go," Conrad exclaimed as the booster rocketed him skyward from Cape Kennedy.

"You are go for M equal one," the Mission Control Center told the astronauts as their tiny spacecraft swept into orbit more than 100 miles above the earth.

"Everything Looks Good"
This was the designation for Gemini II's plan to rendezvous with the Agena target satellite in the first orbit.

"Roger," replied command pilot Conrad.

As the great rocket rose skyward, green lights flashed across the boards in the control center in Houston, Tex.

"Everything looks good," the control center told the astronauts about half way through the six-minute flight of the Titan.

From atop the Titan rocket, the astronauts had followed the progress of the Agena as it darted away at 8:05 a. m. and blasted the 26-foot-long Agena into a path around the earth.

Their countdown, started and interrupted twice last week, ticked smoothly toward the intended liftoff of 10:42 a. m. (EST).

Couldn't See Atlas
They couldn't see the fiery departure of the Atlas because their cramped capsule faced straight up. But they were given radio reports and were told that the 7,000-pound Agena had raced into orbit.

The space agency said initial tracking reports indicated the Agena's orbit ranged from 183 to 189 miles above the earth, very near the 185-mile-high circular orbit that was planned.

Just two minutes before the Atlas-Agena was to lift off, at 8:49 a. m., a 16-minute delay was forced by a balky hatch over command pilot Conrad in the Gemini II spacecraft. Checks showed it hadn't sealed properly.

Two Minor Problems
Technicians re-opened the hatch, then closed it again and finally got the problem whipped.

Magr. Clark Dies
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The Rt. Rev. Magr. R. Leo Clark, who was pastor of St. Margaret Mary's Church here from 1933 to 1959, died Sunday in St. Peter's Hospital. He was about 75.

Magr. Clark, who was born in Troy, attended Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass., and St. Joseph's Seminary, Yonkers, N. Y. He was ordained at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City in 1918 and served thereafter in the Albany diocese.

Besides the trouble with the hatch, there were two other minor problems.

A countdown clock on one rocket had to stop momentarily to become perfectly timed with another clock entering the countdown, and a sliver of metal was found in a fuel line that feeds Gemini II's Titan 2 rocket.

The sliver was "noticed, isolated and ignored," officials said, because two filters stood between it and the Titan 2 rocket, eliminating any chance that it might have caused a problem. No countdown hold was called.

The start of the three-day flight was delayed on Friday when a pinhole leak was found in the Titan fuel system. It was plugged with a gooey seal worth less than a penny.

Nothing Replaced
Another postponement was called Saturday when engineers got a faulty signal from the Atlas that performed so flawlessly this morning. The signal indicated trouble in the automatic pilot. But an all-night check showed it was only a high wind and a sensitive amplifier and nothing was replaced in the rocket.

Memoriam
In loving memory of my wife and our mother, Mrs. George (Scully) Norton, who passed away two years ago, September 11, 1964:

Upright and just in all her ways
Loyal and true through all her days.
Silently suffered, patiently bore
God took her home to suffer no more.

HUSBAND, SON and DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

MEMORIAM
In loving memory of grandmother, Mary Higby, who passed to her eternal reward Sept. 12, 1965 at 88.

Although there is no miracle prophet of God on Earth today, who can resurrect the dead, yet we can be confident that we shall meet again, spiritually.

Do not marvel at this for the hour is coming when those memorial tombs will bear His voice.

Therefore, We, a Christians and believers have trust in Christ's promise as revealed to us.

We have seen in our generation events marking the beginning of the end of this wicked system; wars, famine, pestilences, hate, lawlessness, skepticism, selfishness, delinquency, etc.

If you exercise faith you may live to see it. What a grand time it will be—with our loved ones once more, when death will be destroyed and all tears wiped from our eyes.

In closing this loving memorial to a gracious lady of God, a humble soul, patient in tribulation, serving Christ in deed and word—

Let me say in her memory, "This sick world needs a practical religious Christianity in and outside the Church. If God's kingdom is ever to be established on Earth," Amen.

Nixon Fears
Johnson Will
'Go Overboard'

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon says he fears President Johnson will "go overboard" in expanding the war in Viet Nam and end up by making that country an American dependency.

Nixon, who recently returned from Saigon and is considered a possible Republican candidate for president in 1968, appeared Sunday on the CBS television program, "Face the Nation."

Nixon has called for an increase of 25 per cent in the number of American troops serving in Viet Nam. But he said he was "distressed" to read published reports that the Johnson administration was thinking of raising the present troop level of about 300,000 to 600,000 or 750,000.

"There is a grave danger at the present time," he said, "that the administration will go overboard in increasing the forces in Viet Nam."

"We might be able to win the war but by doing so we would have on our hands a dependency for a generation to come. That's the wrong way to handle it."

The chief bar to peace in Viet Nam, Nixon contended, was "the split in the Democratic party."

This split, he said, leads the enemy to believe that, if he holds out, the United States will give in. He said he was referring to Democrats favoring expansion and those favoring increased efforts for negotiations.

An Unsafe Turn

A charge of making an unsafe turn was lodged Friday afternoon by Ellenville State Police against Alton Curry, 53, Kerhonkson, following a two-car collision on Route 209 at Kerhonkson, according to State Police Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes of Ellenville.

According to Trooper Robert Stauch, who issued the summons, Patricia Peters, 22, of Ellenville, was driving south on Route 209 and Curry was making a left turn in front of her vehicle when the mishap occurred.

The summons is returnable at a later date before Justice of the Peace Raymond Lawrence, Town of Rochester.

Your first visit to a Mobil Station could cost us $1000.

And so could your second, third or fourth. What do you have to do for that kind of money? Just open an envelope.

One will be handed to you every time you drive into a participating Mobil Station. (You don't have to buy a thing.)

On each envelope there'll be two safety symbols. For instance...  Inside is a third symbol.

If the symbol inside the envelope matches the two outside,  you win.

You can win $1 or $5, or $100, on up to $1000. But even if you don't win, you don't lose either.

Because the symbol you need may show up in a future envelope.

The more envelopes you get, the better your chances. So keep them handy, and keep on driving into Mobil Stations.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Sept. 12, the 255th day of 1966. There are 110 days left in the year.

On this date in 1918, United States forces advanced on two fronts to wipe out the St. Mihiel Salient in France. It was the first battle in World War I entirely planned and executed by American units.

On this date:
In 1941, the prices of anthracite coal in the United States were frozen.
In 1942, the Japanese made new landings in the Solomon Islands.

In 1944, American troops invaded Germany at a second point near the Belgium border.
In 1946, Henry Wallace started a ruckus with a speech rapping a get-tough-with-Russia policy. The speech was endorsed by President Harry Truman.

Ten years ago—The Republican presidential campaign was officially opened at a picnic supper for 500 party leaders from all parts of the country in a tent in front of President Eisenhower's farm home in Gettysburg, Pa.

Five years ago—The U.S. State Department issued a statement rejecting a Soviet note received the day before. The U.S. statement said that it could not accept, in its words, "any unilateral transfer by the Soviets of their responsibilities in Berlin to the puppet East German regime."

One year ago—Authorities closed off a 40-mile stretch of the lower Mississippi River as they searched for a missing barge loaded with 600 tons of deadly chlorine gas.

Today's Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF, AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Werner Gullander is the face of the National Association of Manufacturers—an efficient, gregarious spokesman for an organization that now feels it should help get things done rather than just being against them.

One year ago—Authorities closed off a 40-mile stretch of the lower Mississippi River as they searched for a missing barge loaded with 600 tons of deadly chlorine gas.

"We were becoming ineffective," Gullander said of the years prior to his taking the job of president in 1962. He admitted having had some reservations before accepting the position, which pays him more than $100,000 a year.

NAM Has Positive Tone
As Gullander expresses it, the NAM has a definite positive tone about it today. It has moved into areas of social responsibility once thought beyond its province. It feels it must do its share or else relinquish its right to criticize.

It has a program now for combatting some of the social problems it must deal with. Negroes from the other end of Manhattan's Park Avenue are trained as office workers at NAM headquarters, for example.

Cites Future Plans
Under another program, case studies on relocating personnel, creating new job opportunities and improving employee skills are being promoted among the 15,000 member companies.

Gullander says that he, himself, is personally friendly with some in labor who may be his philosophical adversaries. The NAM is trying also to work smoothly with the federal government, he said.

A glance at its publication, NAM Reports, shows a surprising willingness to cooperate. In fact, a recent article seemed to express sympathy for a Democratic president's difficult task of running a full employment economy.

Respect LBJ Interest
As Gullander puts it, "I respect President Johnson's interest in combating inflation." (This statement was made before Johnson revealed plans to suspend the investment tax credit).

Gullander, 57, is fit-looking, red-faced. He wears silver-rimmed glasses, is fastidious in appearance and manner. He is no prototype of the tycoon.

Gullander represents and speaks on broad, general policy formulated by NAM committees, which occupy 3,000 members from time to time and 300 staffers fulltime.

Marketplace Is Boss
The NAM, he said, still does not like government action in the marketplace. "The most effective boss is the marketplace," he said. "I have a greater confidence in it than in the government for determining what people want."

Regarding the broad social welfare programs of the administration, Gullander commented: "Don't you think they get in where there's hay to be made? It's the re-election motive."

But should something perhaps be done for depressed areas such as Appalachia? "If a stream runs dry, the fisherman gets up and leaves," he said.

The big problems before the country now, Gullander said in answer to a question were inflation, the Viet Nam war and the adverse balance of payments condition.

Can't Identify Man Swept Over Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Investigators say they have been unable to identify a man who, witnesses said, climbed over a railing at Prospect Point Saturday night and was swept to his death over the American Falls.

Niagara Frontier State Park Police said Sunday they had not received a missing-person report and that the body had not been recovered.

The man, described as between the ages of 20 and 35 and wearing dark brown clothing, left no personal effects behind, they added.

Assessor Gets Shirts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eight taxpayers have mailed the Los Angeles County assessor the shirts off their back.

A note with one told Assessor Philip E. Watson, "Dear Mr. Watson, this is to inform you that your increased evaluation of our property is taking the shirts off our backs."

"We get a few jokes every year," said a deputy assessor.

Hard to Lose, But South Did

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

North and South both bid their hands with reckless abandon. North had a mere ten points for his two diamond response but was still able to find a second bid while South with a complete minimum opening and a fair six-card suit jumped to game.

West opened the king of hearts. East played the queen and won the second lead of a low heart with his jack. South ruffed the third heart and led a spade to dummy's king.

As you can see the hand is a cinch from this point on. The club finesse is going to work. Trumps and diamonds break and South will lose a diamond but can't lose another trick. Or can he?

South, an unlucky expert type, managed to find a way to go down.

He started by taking the club finesse. He decided that play was more likely to work than to try to establish diamonds for a discard. Then he played his ace of trumps. West dropped the jack and South looked at it carefully. Then he played his ace of clubs, entered dummy with the king of clubs, led the last heart and ruffed. East let his queen of clubs go on that fourth heart.

The South played a diamond to the ace and played a low diamond from dummy. East dropped the seven on the first diamond lead and won the second with the king.

Then East led his eight of spades. South had played the whole hand to reach this position. It looked to him as if East's other card was the ten of spades. South played the nine and West made his ten spot.

Fire Claims 13 In Anchorage

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—At least 13 persons, two of them women, died today in an early morning fire that destroyed the two-story, 33-room Lane Hotel on the edge of Anchorage's main business district.

Anchorage police said 13 bodies, some of them burned beyond recognition, were recovered from the ruins of the frame building.

The fire started during a cold, driving rain and flames quickly swept through the building, burst through the roof and towered skyward before they could be brought under control two hours later. The cause was not determined.

The bodies were taken to a police garage where attempts to identify them were started. The first 10 bodies recovered were found on the second floor. Fire Chief Vic Bernasconi said people were known to have slept in the basemen and that area, filled with charred timbers and debris would have to be searched thoroughly before a definite death toll could be determined.

Balloon Trip Great

VILLAS, N.J. (AP) — "It was great. I felt like the piper," said Tracy Barnes, climbing out of the wicker basket under the balloon that carried him 3,000 miles—often at leaf-picking level.

He spent four months and more than 200 airborne hours crossing the continent from San Diego, Calif., the first such balloon trip ever, he said. Near Pittsburgh, Barnes, 27, said he reached 25,000 feet to set a hot-air balloon world altitude record.

The craft landed Sunday just north of this southern New Jersey community on the Delaware Bay.

ACCORDING TO OFFICIAL Communist sources, this picture shows Chairman Mao Tse-tung sporting a big smile and a hearty hand-clasp as he met members of the youthful Red Guard in Peking. Mao is said to have asked

Disclose Another U.S. Spy in Sky

NEW YORK (AP) — A new television system which can be monitored from the ground.

The News said the satellite is an improved version of a type which has been photographing Soviet and Chinese military bases for more than five years — the so-called Smos program.

It said the new satellite, first launched on July 29 from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California, has a camera so powerful it can photograph objects as small as several feet across from 100 miles up. The film packages are dropped on signal from the earth and caught in nets by planes near Hawaii, or fished from the ocean if the planes miss.

Mickey Weds Friend

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Mickey Rooney was due at rehearsals in Los Angeles today after wedding a long-time friend, Margie Lane, at Las Vegas, Nev.

The marriage Saturday was the second for Miss Lane, a divorcee, and the sixth for Rooney. Both she and Rooney are 43. They have known each other for eight years.

Rooney's previous wives were Ava Gardner, Betty Jane Rase, Martha Vickers, Elaine Mahnk-son and the late Barbara Thomas.

Dengler Has Liberties

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Lt. (j.g.) Dieter Dengler, Navy flier who escaped his North Vietnamese captors, reportedly has weekend and evening liberties from the naval hospital in San Diego.

Dengler, 26, trekked 23 days through the jungle after being captured by the Communists when his plane was shot down last February. While escaping, he said, he witnessed the recapture and beheading of another escapee, an Air Force pilot.

Hope Donates Site

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope and his wife have donated an 80-acre site for a proposed $5.5-million Eisenhower Medical Center in Palm Desert.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his wife, who are honorary chairman and vice chairman of the center, spend their winters in Palm Desert.

Groundbreaking is scheduled early next year for the center, which will include 380 beds and research facilities for heart, pulmonary and lung ailments.

Liberal Chairman Sees Roosevelt Polling Million

NEW YORK (AP)—The Rev. Donald S. Harrington, state chairman of the Liberal party and its candidate for lieutenant governor, predicted Sunday that Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., the nominee for governor, would poll more than one million votes.

Roosevelt said later that he "would frankly be very pleased with 300,000 to 400,000."

Harrington, speaking on WOR-TV's "New York Report," which was taped on Friday, said a new image of Roosevelt will emerge during the campaign.

"New York State," Harrington said, is going to see a new Roosevelt, and a Roosevelt that combines the strengths of his father and the graces of his mother, and is going to remember a good many things in this campaign.

"And I think, myself, that Frank O'Connor and Nelson Rockefeller are going to look pretty drab compared to this Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Roosevelt, who appeared on the WCBS-TV "Newsmakers" program, said in commenting on Harrington's prediction.

"Well, I think that's really Don Harrington's guess. I have not looked in the crystal ball, so I can't tell at this point. I think during the coming eight weeks—I hope that we will grow in strength and in support among the voters, but I have no idea of how many votes we're going to get." A voter casts one ballot

Must Stop Bombing

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — "If the Americans want to come back to Cambodia they must decide, once and for all, to stop bombing us," Prince Norodom Sihanouk says.

Sihanouk added that his people would "sack the American Embassy, as they have already done, if there were new bombings on our frontier zones by the Americans."

Rags, Steel Help in Freedom Dash for 5 Young Refugees

By MARTIN ZUCKER

BERLIN (AP)—Rags and steel plates protected five young refugees from Communist gunfire as they crashed into West Berlin in a bulldozer.

Two young men, their pregnant wives, and the 4-year-old son of one of the couples crouched Sunday in the speeding bulldozer as it crossed two ditches and crashed through four barbed-wire fences before hitting a tree a few yards inside West Berlin.

Women Jumped First

Two East German border guards ran toward the vehicle with submachine guns blazing. "We had to get out of the bulldozer. The women jumped first, then we pulled up the bottom of a (garden) fence, let the women crawl through, and followed them," the 24-year-old professional bulldozer operator related.

A witness said one of the refugees, carrying the child in his arms, repeatedly cried "Are we in the West? Are we in the West?"

They were taken to a hospital, where one man and one woman were treated for slight bullet wounds of the head and released.

West Berlin police said East German border guards fired more than 100 rounds at the fleeing vehicle. Thirty-eight bullets hit it, some piercing the thin armor plating, police said. The driver explained that they had only enough armor plate to shield the gas tank and windows.

"We stuffed rags into the back of the bulldozer's cabin because we ran out of steel plates. That's how we found the way into freedom which was in our hearts for so long," he said.

The driver, his 26-year-old wife, their son, a friend, 29, and his wife, 18, declined to give their names. Both men worked at a nationalized construction company garage about 800 yards from the border.

An East German armored personnel carrier pulled the vehicle back to the East about 90 minutes after the escape. All three Western commanders protested the gunfire, terming it "totally irresponsible behavior on the part of the border guards, involving also grave danger to lives in West Berlin."

A NEW YORK STATE SAVINGS BANK

There are many kinds of banks with many kinds of bankbooks, but...

In our book you come first.

This isn't an ordinary bankbook. But then we're not ordinary banks.

We're Savings Banks. The big word there is "Savings."

If your bank doesn't have "Savings" in its name, it's not a Savings Bank.

Only a Savings Bank gives you a real Savings Bank bankbook. And a Savings Bank bankbook stands for a unique combination of benefits: unsurpassed safety... and consistently higher interest-dividends over the years than other bankbooks.

Other banks exist primarily for reasons not related to savings. But Savings Banks are the specialists in savings. Savings Banks are run exclusively for the benefit of their depositors. Their profits go only to you.

No wonder more people in New York State save in Savings Banks than in all other banking institutions combined.

And the money people save in Savings Banks is invested in homes, stores, industrial plants, schools, hospitals, houses of worship... giving Grow-Power to their communities and the state. Think of that, too, next time you look at your Savings Bankbook.

Its cover may not be as fascinating as some paperbacks you know. But study the figures inside. You'll gaze at them with increasing interest as time goes by.

Savings Banks are different. And the difference is all in your favor.

Teeners To Be Recognized

are encouraged to rise to the ranks of leadership. The roots of adult leadership begin to develop when we are in our teens. In high school, somewhere, there is a teenager who will find the cure for cancer. Somewhere in high school there is a future president of Montgomery Ward. And somewhere in high school there is a teenager, who will someday be President of the United States."

Local Committee Named
The organizing committee which has undertaken the responsibility to initiate the program in the Kingston area is composed of five prominent citizens. In addition to Chairman Simmons, the other members are Harry M. Thayer of Radio Station WGHQ, Larry Swars of Radio Station WKNY, N. Jansen Fowler, a prominent Kingston attorney, and Professor Neil Whitehurst of the Ulster County Community College.

The committee members will also act as administrators for the program. "We feel that this is a splendid way to honor our best young citizens," Chairman Simmons said. "It will not only recognize the fine qualities of our area teenagers, but show them that the community does care and is proud of them. We hope every resident of this area will support this program with enthusiasm."

Simmons explained the program as follows:
"Each high school principal in our area has been asked to appoint a faculty committee to screen and nominate candidates from the student body. These nominations, along with their qualifications, will be submitted to a blue ribbon panel of judges. Each month the judges will select from the nominations one outstanding student as recipient of the award. Selection will be based on overall achievement."

Recipients of the Young American Award will receive from Montgomery Ward a certificate of recognition, at a monthly dinner party to be held in area restaurants.

A reproduction of the winners' portrait and a brief sketch of their qualifications will appear each month in the Kingston Daily Freeman and other area newspapers. As each winners' portrait is placed in the center of a display, preceding winners' portraits will be hung in a Gallery of Honor at the store.

Highlights of the program will be an Awards Banquet at the end of the year, when all 12 winners and their parents will be guests of honor. Chairman Simmons said, "the committee already has a plan for a wonderful event to give special recognition to all Young American Award recipients."

Montford, Ward's store manager expressed his delight at the wonderful response from those members of the organizing committee. "I am confident that this program will make all of us realize just how wonderful our teenagers are, and will correct the false image caused by so few."

N. JANSEN FOWLER

Fowler, one of Kingston's most prominent attorneys, has long been active in many endeavors of the Kingston area. As a tennis enthusiast and an active participant of the sport, he has been instrumental in the development of many exceptional teenage players.

Fowler has practiced law in the city of Kingston since 1933, with the exception of a four year absence during World War II when he served in the United States Navy. He has been connected with many civic affairs and is a past vice-president of the local Board of Education, past president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and Kingston Area Community Chest.

In accepting his appointment to the Young American Awards committee he expressed his pleasure at having the opportunity to join with Montgomery Ward in honoring our young teen-age citizens.

HARRY M. THAYER

Thayer, president of radio station WGHQ, in accepting his appointment as a member of the Young American Awards Committee, said that "he was flattered and honored to have the opportunity to help honor the youth of the Kingston area."

Thayer, through his renowned editorials of the air, and his active support of many worthwhile causes, has become the leading radio personality of the mid-Hudson area.

Thayer was born in Danemora, and moved to Ulster County in 1913 when his physician father was appointed superintendent of Napanoch Prison. He attended Ellenville High School, Middlebury College and New York University. He started his business career in New York City with Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, in 1941 he became general manager of the Philadelphia Eagles Football Club and in 1947 became general manager of the Los Angeles Rams.

In 1950 Mr. Thayer returned to Ulster County as the owner and publisher of the Ellenville Press. In 1959 he entered the field of radio when he became General Manager of radio station WGHQ. In 1964 he was promoted to the presidency of WGHQ and in 1965 also assumed the vice presidency of Herald-Tribune Radio. This year he was named president of Whitey Communications Radio, Inc.

Swars is a 25 year veteran in the field of radio and public relations and has been active in many civic affairs, including the Benedictine Hospital Fund Drive and the Community Chest.

Swars, commercial manager of local radio station WKNY, said "that he was tremendously pleased to join with the other four members of the organizing committee of the Young American Awards program. Too often, we do hear and read about young Americans whose exploits bring disgrace to their generation. These teen-agers are in the minority but they receive the most publicity. Now, for a change, the majority of that generation are going to be publicly honored for their contributions to our community. I personally saw them in action when they joined with us in raising money for a very needy cause. They gave their time, their money and themselves unselfishly."

Schollenkamp requested a preliminary hearing which was set for Thursday, Sept. 22.

Raymond Wright, 16, of Tillsen, was charged with burglary, third degree, in connection with a recent break-in at Bagley's Market, Tillsen. His case is pending. Wright and Schollenkamp were released in custody of their parents.

Arrested with Verdon on Saturday were two juveniles, aged 14 and 15. Another 14-year-old boy was taken into custody on Sunday with Wright and Schollenkamp, troopers said.

Sergeant Joseph Ellsworth reported that the investigation included a burglary at Bagley's Market and larcenies at P. Balantine & Sons plant at Tillsen.

Chief Bower complimented Trooper Kilfoyle for good police work during the investigation. The chief said the inquiry also included an entry at the Rosendale Sportsman's Club.

According to authorities, the three juveniles will be petitioned into Family Court.

The Sunday paper — and some sections of the afternoon paper when necessary — will be printed on presses in the old Herald Tribune building on West 41st Street, just off Times Square.

The World Journal Tribune originally planned to publish the Herald Tribune on weekday mornings but dropped the plans on Aug. 15.

April Start Planned
The new corporation had planned to start publication of its afternoon paper on April 25. But the Newspaper Guild of New York struck the day before. Members of the guild had been working on the three old papers without contracts.

Members of the nine craft unions refused to cross guild picket lines. Also, the craft unions refused to work without new contracts with the corporation.

The guild settled with the corporation June 28. By July 13, the World Journal Tribune had reached settlements with eight of the nine craft unions but a stalemate with the pressmen continued. The pressmen should be working on the three old papers without contracts.

The terms of the pressmen's settlement led to renegotiation of the nine contract agreements that had been reached before the Herald Tribune was dropped. The last ratification of a renegotiated contract was the stereotypers' vote Sunday.

Definite Objective

(Q) "Our investment club needs advice. We cannot agree on what to aim for — steady long-term growth or faster speculative growth. What are the best buys now? Or should we liquidate and quit the market?" F.O., M.M., B.O., C.S.

(A) Several club portfolios have come to me recently with requests for suggested changes. I hope the following comments will cover the majority of these inquiries. I'm generally pleased with the portfolios I've seen, although I would caution against over diversification.

I recommend no drastic changes until the investing climate has become more settled; nor do I advise quitting the market. The investment club is a cooperative learning plan as well as a profit-making plan. When people decide to invest they must learn how to calculate downside risks as well as upside growth. Investment judgment is developed only through experience. While the market is taking time to stabilize, club members should be holding policy-review meetings. Their major objective should be settled afresh. In a larger club with more funds in hand, a dual objective might be worked out, a larger club with more funds in hand, a dual objective might

A) I incline toward the purchase of good growth stocks. For the present put surplus cash in your savings account, awaiting the market's turnaround. The use a reasonable part of this cash to start an educational portfolio with one or two of the growth stocks frequently mentioned here, adding more as opportunity favors you.

Schedule Hearing September 28th On Senior Taxes

Saugerties Town Board will hold an important public hearing Wednesday, Sept. 28, at 8 p. m. in the town offices. Older residents will be interested in the hearing which has been set to discuss the pros and cons of adopting necessary town legislation to give some tax relief to certain persons in the 65 years of age and over group. Quite a number of persons here probably qualify for such tax exemptions under the newly approved State Law 467.

Under this law, real property owners in the age group concerned, who have an income of $3,000 or less, are eligible to a 50 per cent reduction in real property tax, if their local municipality has adopted necessary town legislation.

Prior to the adoption of a local law, ordinance or resolution here, however, it is necessary under the law for the Saugerties Town Board to hold a public hearing on the matter.

Census figures in the Town of Saugerties show a great many residents in the age bracket involved. However, not all of them are owners of real property and not all of those who own real property will fall into the bracket of having $3,000 or less in yearly income.

All those who are within the $3,000 or less bracket and who own real property should be vitally interested in attending the Sept. 28 hearing and making their needs known to local officials.

Dear Abby . . .

Never Too Busy to Make That Call

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What are you trying to do us newly married young girls by saying you see no reason why a young married should not keep in daily touch with her mother?

One of the reasons a girl leaves home is to get out from under her mother's domination.

I am a bride and I work 8 hours a day. I cook supper and my husband does the dishes and vacuums. In the evenings, I do my hair, our washing and ironing and mending. We go out with friends once a week or have friends over every other week. I call her once a week —yet, I got your column in my mailbox!

Abby, who am I to please? Myself, my mother, or my husband?

I am very busy and I get tired. I just don't have time for a 15 or 20-minute phone call with my mother everyday, and I can't cut her off any sooner.

Please, for us who don't have time but want to keep peace in the family say a kind word. And until you do, I am an —

EX ABBY FAN

DEAR FAN: I will miss you, but before you depart may I say that I have never known a person who was too busy to do the things he really wanted to do. And I did not say that a married woman SHOULD be in touch with her mother daily, I said, I saw nothing wrong with it.

DEAR ABBY: When I come home after my night out with the girls, my husband always kisses me hello to see if I've been drinking. I resent this. I never kiss him to see if he's been drinking when HE comes home from his night out with the boys because I KNOW he has. I say, what's good for the goose is good for the gander. Right?

GANDER

DEAR GANDER: That's a lot of goosefeathers. What's good for the goose has never been good for the gander. And never will be.

DEAR ABBY: We have a son who has been in the service for a year. He is now stationed in Hawaii. After not hearing one line from him in two months, we received a telephone call from Hawaii at 2 o'clock in the morning. It was our son informing us that he is getting married and needs our consent and signature as he is only 19 years old.

Well, Abby, you could have knocked us over with a feather. Of course we knew nothing of this girl. He said he met her six weeks ago and he loves her "deeply." We have been through all this with him before. He has fallen in and out of love half a dozen times already and each time he says it is the real thing.

Believe me, we have had it with him. We refused our consent because we honestly feel he isn't grown up enough to know what he wants. Are we doing right to refuse our consent to this marriage?

HOLDING OFF

DEAR HOLDING: Until you know more about the girl, and the circumstances, I would say your decision was sound.

Injured When Auto Overtakes on Thruway
Two young women were injured at 1 p. m. Sunday when the car in which they were riding went out of control on the State Thruway, about 10 miles south of Kingston and overturned on the mall.
Thruway State Police Sergeant Henry Ganss said the car driven by Roselyn Valentine, 19, of 2215 Woodland Avenue, Bronx, was traveling north at the time of the mishap. The driver sustained minor injuries. A passenger, Marie Hutter, 19, of 1716 Putnam Avenue, Queens, received injuries of the back, body and arms, troopers said.
The women were taken to Kingston Hospital by Eatum's Ambulance and later transferred by the same ambulance service to Union Hospital, New York City.

Rotary Will Host 'Steak-Out' Fete
Rotary Club of Saugerties members heard guest speaker Frank Hornbeck give a pictorial report, with slides, of his trip to the Rotary International convention at Denver at their recent meeting. Hornbeck, who was introduced by Terry Staples, also spoke on the organization's international exchange program, now being organized to send six non-Rotary young businessmen from this district to Australia for a leadership training program.
The meeting saw a 99 per cent attendance at this fall season opener as Hornbeck further explained that next year this Rotary district will host six young people from Australia. Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, of Saugerties, is coordinating publicity for the program in Ulster County.
The club has a newly created food committee through whose efforts menus are being planned this year and all members are participating actively in the club, which will hold a "Steak-Out" Tuesday, beginning at 6 p. m. on Cantine Field. Gerald Snyder and a committee of culinary experts will host members of the Saugerties, Woodstock and Phoenicia Rotary Clubs at this event. Those attending should bring their own eating utensils, and those who will not be able to attend should contact Snyder.
Guests at the recent meeting included Jedd Reisner of Highland-New Paltz and Lawrence Bogert and Frank Hornbeck of Kingston. Peter Murphy and Morris Rosenbloom of the Saugerties club were guests at a recent Woodstock Rotary meeting.

Insurance — Is your National Service Insurance Term Policy all or a large part of your insurance protection? Do you intend to keep this insurance for the rest of your life, even if you live to be 70 or 80, as many people do? If your answer to these questions is yes, then you probably should not carry renewable term insurance indefinitely. Why not? Because, for one thing, you may not be able to afford it when you approach or pass 70. The longer you live the higher the premium gets. Remember, if you are the average man your income will be smaller in the later years of life. Although ordinary or modified life plans cost more right now, remember the premiums don't increase. In the years to come won't they be easier to pay than the high term premiums?

Leaving for Military Service

—Then it is important for you to maintain a permanent file of all records pertaining to your military service, both active and Reserve. Save copies of orders, papers showing dates on which you receive medical attention, discharges, and other data about your military history. Information from these records may be required by the VA and Social Security Administration. Having the information on file may help you or your survivors to expedite a claim or receive a benefit.

Re-employment Benefits — New York State residents preparing to go on active duty with the Armed Forces can be reasonably sure that their present job, unless it is a temporary one, will be available to them when they return to civilian life. An employer is required by law to restore a returning service man to his former position if he still qualifies to perform its duties, or to another of equal seniority, status, and pay, unless his circumstances have so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable for him to do so. For further details regarding this you are asked to contact this office.

Heads Radio Free Europe Fund

Michael L. Haider, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Standard Oil Company (New Jersey), has been elected chairman of the Radio Free Europe Fund for a two-year term.

Haider was elected Sept. 8 at a meeting of the Radio Free Europe Fund Board of Directors. He succeeds Crawford H. Greenwalt, chairman of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, who served as chairman of the RFE Fund for three years.

The RFE Fund is the fundraising arm of Radio Free Europe, a private organization based in Munich, West Germany. RFE, the principal free world broadcaster to the Communist-ruled people of East Europe, transmits 531 hours of programs weekly to Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Rumania and Bulgaria over 31 transmitters with a total power of 2,260,000 watts. The basic purpose of Radio Free Europe is to assist the East European people to achieve by peaceful means their aspirations of personal freedom and national independence. Recent surveys have shown that RFE has an audience of at least 22 million regular listeners.

Shorthand's Start

The first organized system of shorthand dates back to the year 63 B.C., the age of eloquence in Rome. Speeches by Cicero, Seneca and other Roman orators were taken down verbatim. The system was taught in Roman schools and remained in use for seven centuries, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Desegregation Progresses In South; Problems Remain

By DON MCKEE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Desegregation of public schools has expanded considerably this fall in the South. But with the spread of change have come spurts of new resistance — white pupil boycotts, challenges of federal guidelines and at least one punch in face of a school superintendent.

Associated Press spot surveys of the 11 Southern states, from Virginia to Texas, indicate a probable doubling of the number of Negro pupils in school with white children since last year.

The most significant development, however, is the start of faculty integration in many school systems, a major effect of the controversial guidelines drawn by the U.S. Office of Education.

Desegregated as many faculties as we could," said a school official in Knoxville, Tenn., where 20 of the 63 schools have Negro and white teachers.

Two Negro schools closed in Huntsville, Ala., to become relics of racial history. Despite the Alabama Legislature's enactment of a law nullifying school board agreements on federal guidelines, integration increased in the state — many systems are under court orders. The Alabama nullification law was pushed through by Gov. George C. Wallace, who vainly tried to block university integration three years ago by standing in a doorway at the University of Alabama.

Ironically, Wallace's son, George Jr., enrolled Tuesday at a Montgomery school where 16 Negroes desegregated classes. In another irony, the Democratic nominee for Arkansas governor, Jim Johnson — who opposes the federal guidelines — saw his twin sons enrolled in a desegregated school.

Some Objectors — Although faculty integration has begun in many schools this fall, it has not been accepted without objection in some instances. A school superintendent at Sanford, Fla., was punched in the face by a white father upset because his daughter's teacher was a Negro.

In Interlachen, Fla., about one-half the white children boycotted classes at a predominantly white elementary school which had three Negro teachers. Campbell County, Va., had 25 faculty vacancies last month when white teachers resigned because of integration.

A wholesale boycott of white pupils resulted in Plaquemines Parish, La., when schools opened under a federal court desegregation order and five Negroes applied for transfer to one of the white schools.

Supporters of the boycott announced construction plans for five private schools, an alternative tried in other states also. Louisiana has an estimated 11,000 pupils receiving the $2-a-day-per-pupil state grants for private schools.

Alabama Law Suit — In Alabama, a three-judge federal court has set a Sept. 30 hearing on a Justice Department suit aimed at prohibiting the state from paying tuition grants for private segregated schools under a 1965 law.

In Mississippi, however, a survey of more than 50 all-white private schools showed the response has been slow. The state pays $185 per pupil under a tuition grant law, but the average cost of private schooling runs about $375 per year.

Wallace's Plan Dutchess Mart, Another Store

A multi-million dollar shopping center on a 73-acre tract on the west side of South Road, Town of Poughkeepsie, is planned by the Forbes and Wallace Co., Springfield, Mass., operators of several stores including the Wallace Co. store at Ulster Shopping Plaza.

Application has been made by the firm to the Poughkeepsie Town Council for rezoning of the property on South Road at the Route 9W intersection, to allow the project. The Council will set a date for a public hearing on the rezoning petition at a meeting scheduled for Sept. 21.

George Bullen, vice-president and treasurer of Forbes and Wallace said the Wallace Co. store on Main Street, Poughkeepsie, will remain open when the new store is built in the shopping center, which will be known as South Hills.

Bullen said that in addition to the Wallace store on the Town of Poughkeepsie site, plans call for two other major department stores and as many as 60 smaller stores, all centered around an enclosed, air-conditioned and heated mall.

According to Bullen, the new Wallace Co. store will contain about 160,000 square feet of floor space and will be two stories in height.

If the rezoning of the tract is approved by the Town Council, Bullen said, it is expected construction will begin next fall.

Forbes and Wallace, in addition to operating stores at the Ulster Shopping Plaza and in Poughkeepsie, has stores in Schenectady, and four in Massachusetts. The home store is in Springfield, the others are in Northampton, North Adams and Holyoke. Another store is presently under construction in a shopping center near Springfield.

John W. Grungould is consulting engineer for Forbes and Wallace, and Charles A. Butts, of the Poughkeepsie law firm of Guernsey, Butts and Walsh, represents the firm in the rezoning application.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

We were having a rather plain supper . . . stewed hen and noodles, peas, chilled applesauce and homemade biscuits.

I wanted to jazz it up a bit for the kids, so I got out my cookie cutters and went to work on the biscuits.

Results . . . stars, bells, men, trees, animals.

Who says biscuits have to be round? Then I got to thinking: Why not do this for luncheon and parties?

It sure makes a conversation piece at the table. Let your imagination run, gals!

Mary Rohloff

Mary, this is one of the cutest ideas to come our way in a month of Sunday's!

And the cookie cutters from a child's baking set would make adorable little biscuits to use for appetizers.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

People have found many uses for empty milk cartons, but did you ever try using one to water house plants?

Try it — the half-gallon cartons with a spout are perfect. Man of the House

Dear Heloise:

On the subject of bathroom floor mats (the ones that should fit around the toilet base but are usually everywhere but where they should be) . . .

I've seen this same problem in many other homes, too. So I thought I would pass on my solution to this aggravating nuisance.

I sewed loops of white elastic thread close to the end of the mat on the underside and hooked them around the bolts that are on each side of the toilet base.

The loops are not one bit noticeable and hold the mat in place.

K. A. McHahan

Dear Heloise:

I am a Junior Girl Scout and my hint will help other Scouts. My sash was always falling off my shoulders.

Then my leaders told us the simple answer.

Sew a snap on the underside of the sash where it lays on the shoulder. Sew the other part of the snap to the uniform on the right shoulder.

Now, whatever you do, your sash will not slip off.

Karen Schindehette

Dear Heloise:

We have a small kitchen and were in need of a kitchen stool high enough for our little girl to sit on at mealtime, but we didn't have a place to store one when not in use.

My husband found some old broom handles, measured and sawed them off, and slipped them up into the hollow legs of one of the chairs of our chrome dinette set.

Rubber tips for regular chair legs kept them from marring our floor.

You'd be surprised how slick this is — and so inexpensive, too.

The broom handle "boosters" may be sanded and painted to match the chair legs.

Our little girl likes her "chair like Daddy's and Mommy's" real well.

Mrs. George J. Rue

Dear Heloise:

When sewing on buttons, I use an embroidery needle (or any needle with a large eye).

I double the thread before threading the needle. I tie the ends together and have four threads.

This way I do not have to make as many stitches through the button.

Mrs. Chuck Sheelar

Dear Heloise:

Doesn't it irk you to lose one of your favorite earrings and have one left? Sometimes from a matching necklace or bracelet set.

I have found a way to make use of an odd earring. The ornament is generally easy to pry away from the ear screw.

For an attractive hair clip, just glue the pretty ornament onto a pin curl hair clip, using a strong cement.

'Doc' Sarraf Dead

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Members of the Pennsylvania legislature returned to Harrisburg today, saddened by the death of a popular colleague, Sen. George J. Sarraf of Pittsburgh.

"Doc" Sarraf, as he was known to his numerous friends in both parties, died Friday in Pittsburgh and his funeral will be conducted there Tuesday.

School Is Closed Because of Tension

NEW YORK (AP) — The doors of P.S. 201 remain closed today, as the Board of Education postponed opening the new $5 million intermediate school in East Harlem in light of a threatened boycott by area residents.

Board President Lloyd K. Garrison said Sunday the action was taken "in an attempt to alleviate the community tension, which would only act to disrupt the educational program of the school."

Parents and neighborhood groups have demanded that the board either bring in white children to effect a measure of integration, or give the community control of the school — including power to hire and fire teachers and set academic standards.

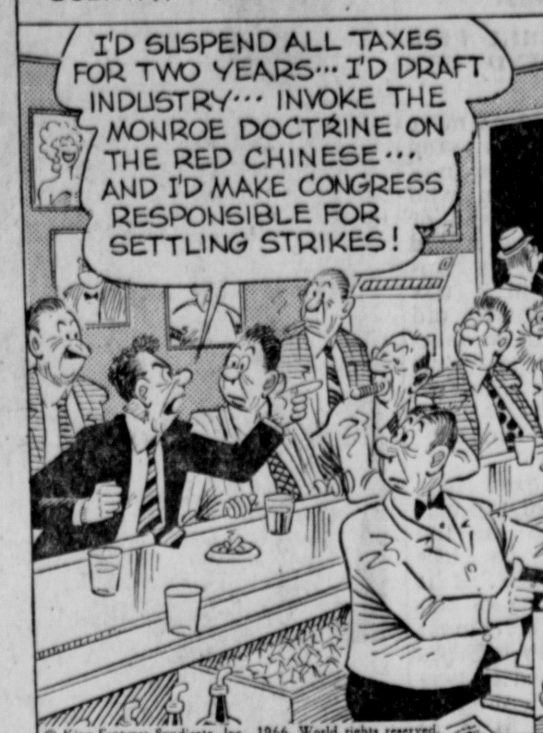

The board has rejected both demands, but said it would meet today with the parent groups to "begin around-the clock discussions . . . to work out an effective method of community participation."

Driver Is Charged In Wawarsing Crash

After an investigation of a traffic accident on Old Route 209, Town of Wawarsing, last Friday night, Robert Dingman, 32, of Napanoch, was arrested by Ellenville State Trooper Douglas Dymond on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

Arraigned later before Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel, Dingman was fined $50 and his license was revoked.

Sergeant Henry Rhodes said Sidney Shapiro, Town of Wawarsing, complained that someone had hit his parked car. It was later learned that Dingman had reported his car stolen to village police, but further investigation by Rhodes resulted in the arrest, Rhodes said.

Doing The Right Thing

BY ELIZABETH L. POST

ORDINARILY ORDERLY PEOPLE BESIEGE THE WHEEL

A polite driver would no more cheat at a red light or stop sign than he would cheat in a game of cards. The man who tries to force his way ahead of others in a line of cars would not think of trying to force himself ahead of others in a box office line. If he accidentally did such a thing he would be mortified by his own rudeness, but let him get behind the wheel of a car, and his courteous instincts may fly right out the window.

Using the Horn

If more people realized that the horn, as the voice of the car, is in reality the voice of the driver, there would be less thoughtlessness in its use. If it is necessary to prevent an accident, use your horn, of course; but no polite driver ever charges at an individual, a crowd of persons on foot, or other automobiles blowing the horn as if to blast them out of the way. In other words, a courteous driver sounds his horn as a warning only in emergencies. Otherwise, he beeps it gently as a polite signal.

No well-mannered young man would announce his arrival at his date's house by standing at the curb and yelling at her. Yet this is just the impression given by he who, arriving by car, sits at the wheel and blasts away at the horn.

I have the greatest sympathy for the man in the following story. His car had stalled in heavy traffic, and although he was obviously trying to find and remedy the trouble, the driver behind was impatiently honking and swearing at the embarrassed victim. After standing the noise and rudeness for as long as he could, our driver walked back to the other's car and said, "Sir, if you would be kind enough to start my engine for me, I would be delighted to stay here and sit on your horn for you!"

Making Turns

A thoughtful driver enters the proper lane sufficiently far in advance of making a turn to avoid a last-minute "jockeying for position" near the corner.

If you know that there is a right or left turn arrow at an intersection, stay out of those lanes when you intend to go straight through so that you do not prevent others from turning with the arrow.

The courteous driver uses his right and left turn indicators invariably. Hand signals vary in different localities, but your directional signals are universally understood. In order not to confuse the driver behind, passengers as well as drivers should refrain from extending hands from car windows, flicking ashes from cigarettes, or pointing at the scenery.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's "Etiquette," revised by Elizabeth L. Post. The question and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this paper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Although you are not even thinking of closing your camp now, you probably will be the end of September and Phyllis W. Barlow, extension home economist, offers the following precautions to prevent freezing, fire and break-ins:

Although you are not even thinking of closing your camp now, you probably will be by the end of September so here are some precautions to prevent freezing, fire, and break-ins.

To prevent freezing, all canned goods and household liquids that will freeze, such as liquid detergents, hand lotion, ink, ammonia, and similar items need to be removed.

The traps of all plumbing fixtures should be drained of water, including the toilet tank and bowl. The toilet bowl will have to be dipped out. The small amount you cannot reach with a dipper should be soaked up with a sponge or cloth. When traps are completely drained of water, there is no danger of damage to pipes. However, sewer gas may creep back into the house; sewer gas can come from a septic tank cesspool as well as from a sewer main. To prevent this danger, pour a quantity of light weight oil into each fixture — sinks, toilets, bathtub, shower drain. The quantity should be sufficient to force all the water on down the drain, leaving the trap filled with the oil which will not freeze.

The hot water tank and pipes must be drained too. If you have your own water system the pressure tank and the pump need to be drained. If there is a hot water heating system to shut off, all radiators, flow lines, and the boiler must be drained. Leave all drain valves open, but do not forget to close them before turning the water on again when you reopen the house.

As precaution against fire, be sure to disconnect all electrical equipment — clocks, refrigerator, radios, TV, portable lamps, washer, dryer, etc. If you have an electrical range, pull the range fuse; if a gas stove, turn off the pilot light, but be sure to re-light the pilot immediately when you turn the gas on again.

Some families who have oil or gas heating systems in their summer homes prefer to leave the heat on all winter, recognizing that an empty house without heat suffers some damage no matter how carefully it is closed up. They set the thermostat around 50 degrees F. so fuel consumption will not be great, and arrange for someone to inspect the house periodically. It is important that some fresh air reach the furnace if it is to have sufficient oxygen to operate properly. In tightly-built houses, a special arrangement may need to be made to meet this requirement. Of course, deciding to leave the heat on means the electric current must be left on, or the furnace won't operate. If you have any questions about doing this, talk to your local power company and fire chief about recommendations for your area. Even if the heat is left on, many camps are in isolated or wooded areas where power failures cannot be corrected immediately should they occur. Therefore, precautions against freezing pipes, drains, liquids, and canned goods should still be observed. If heat is not left on, be sure to cover the chimney to guard against entrance of rain, rodents, or birds. Put a rock on top so the wind won't blow the cover off. Close the fireplace damper.

Do not leave old newspapers and combustible trash in the house, and be sure to place all matches or glass containers to prevent possible trouble with mice. Lock all doors and windows.

Notify your local law enforcement officers of the dates you expect to return. Leave an address with them as to where they can obtain one. Last, but not least, be sure to leave a forwarding address with your postmaster.

Fine Family Recipe Include Rock Lobster

"What's remarkable about her recipes is that no ingredient ever loses its identity."

This unusual appraisal of a person's cooking skill came from a reader recently. It's worth thinking about.

If pepper or garlic or the seasoning of the tenderizer obscures the flavor of the meat, something's wrong. When somebody says he didn't realize those were carrots in the vegetable casserole, perhaps it's time to find a new recipe that lets the tender flavor of carrots come through.

Here's a perfectly balanced recipe. Every ingredient not only identifies itself but does so in the most delightful way. The delicate flavor of the succulent South African rock lobster meat is not lost in the sauce. The diner can taste and really enjoy one of the finest seafoods in the world. The lima beans are frankly lima beans, enhanced but not "buried." This is a recipe to remember for the family and for company meals, too.

Rock Lobster Fricassee

6 (4-oz.) South African rock lobster tails
2 (10-oz.) cans undiluted cream of chicken soup
1/2 cup cream
2 egg yolks
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 (10-oz.) package frozen lima beans, cooked according to package directions
1/4 cup chopped pimiento
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
2 tubes oven-ready biscuits (20 biscuits)

Parboil frozen South African rock lobster tails by dropping into boiling salted water. As soon as water boils, drain and drench with cold water. Cut away thin underside membrane and remove meat from shells in one piece. Slice in half lengthwise. In a saucepan combine chicken soup, cream and egg yolks. Heat over low flame until smooth and hot. Do not boil. Stir in rock lobster halves, lemon rind, cooked lima beans, pimiento and green pepper. Cook, stirring constantly, for 5 minutes over low flame. Place biscuits into lightly-buttered pie plate, lining entire pan. Bake as directed on package. When golden brown, slide biscuits from pie plate to a platter as a solid round. Cover center with rock lobster mixture. Yield: 6-8 generous servings.

Van Aken Wins Round Robin; Dwyer New Seniors Champion

Woodstock Champ Is First Golfer To Score Repeat

Climaxing one of the best years in his brilliant career, Bill Van Aken became the first repeat champion in the Kingston Area Round Robin golf tournament Saturday at Twaalfskill, when he finished the 54-hole event with a plus 9 score.

Leon Randall, Wiltwyck Country Club champion, was runner-up with plus 5 and Ricky Barthel of Twaalfskill was in the show spot with minus 14.

Van Aken and Randall are now tied with two Round Robin victories each. The other went to Harvey Bostic of Wiltwyck in 1963.

The perennial Woodstock champion closed out the tense struggle with Randall with a birdie-3 on the 53rd hole (Twaalfskill's No. 8) where he wedged an approach shot 5 feet from the pin and rolled it in.

Randall was eliminated when he made a gallant bid to tie Van Aken's birdie from 16 feet.

Starts With Birdie

The day started on a happy note for Van Aken who started Saturday's round with a 10-foot birdie-3 on Twaalfskill's first hole. That broke a plus 5 tie with Randall and gave Van Aken a plus 7 to Randall's plus.

A birdie-3 on No. 4 enabled Randall to regain the lead at plus 9 to plus 7 but Van Aken went ahead to stay on the 48th hole where Randall hooked his drive into the No. 1 fairway and needed 4 to get down.

The 49th Twaalfskill's par-four 4th may have been the key hole of the day. Randall was on in two three feet from the pin but Van Aken drove into the lower trap and found himself with a tricky lie tight to the edge of the bunker. He exploded neatly to within 4 feet and canned the birdie 3 to hold Randall even.

All three players got pars on the par-five 50th. Barthel picked up a point from each on the par-three sixth (51st) leaving Van Aken leading plus 9 to plus 5.

Delaying the Finish

Van Aken missed a chance to close out the match on the 52nd hole (No. 7) when he chipped too strongly from 10 feet off the green and missed a six-foot shot at a birdie-4. Randall also missed from that distance and Barthel took a point from each with his birdie-4.

Then came the 52nd (8th hole) and Van Aken's magnificent wedge shot to the tricky pin placement and the 5 foot birdie.

All three contestants received trophies through the courtesy of the Twaalfskill Club at a post-tournament luncheon attended by three presidents—Joseph E. O'Connor of Twaalfskill, William McCullen of Wiltwyck and Kenneth Charlton of Woodstock.

Dick Smith and Mary Fowler Capture Mixed Doubles Title

Dick Smith completed the hat trick in the Ulster County Tennis Tournament Saturday when he teamed with Mary Fowler to win the Mixed Doubles title. They beat back the challenge of Dave Roberts and Kitty Fowler, 8-6, 6-3.

Previously, Smith had won the singles title and shared the men's double laurels with Dick Little.

In the mixed doubles finals, the Roberts-Mary Fowler tandem took early leads in both sets, 4-0 and 2-0 but failed to hold it.

In the semi-final matches, Smith and Kitty Fowler eliminated Frank Kruszenski and Kathy Boyd, 6-1, 6-1. Kruszenski and Boyd gained the semi-finals by beating Bruce Sumner and Lynn Blackwell, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1. Roberts and Kitty Fowler defeated Dick Little and Pat Boyd, 6-2, 8-6, in a quarter final match.

Singles Winner

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Norman Freeman of Ithaca, N. Y., has the North American Single-Handed Sailing Championship bobbing in his wake today.

Freeman captured the title Saturday with first and third-place finishes in the last two races. Overall, he scored 170.56 points in the ten races over four days of competition to Chesapeake Bay.

Terry Cronburg of Winchester, Mass., who was tied for first with Freeman Saturday, finished second, with 157 points.

Bert Coan Paces KC Over Bills

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bert Coan, the controversial halfback who always has been on the run, finally has gained something besides notoriety.

The new man in the Kansas City backfield, Coan put on the best performance of his five-year pro career Sunday as he ripped off 110 yards rushing in 11 carries and scored two touchdowns in the Chiefs' 42-20 American Football League Victory over the Bills.

It was the first regular season game for the Chiefs and the first indication that Coan is ready to live up to his potential. "He's had his heartaches and disappointments," said Coach Hank Stram. "And it's just great to see him pulling himself out of the jungle. He just scratched the surface against Buffalo. Once Bert makes a few long runs—watch out."

He hit the headlines when he transferred from TCU to Kansas in a cause celebre. He hit the headlines when he became the center of a recruiting case that ended with Kansas stripped of the Big Eight title. And he hit the headlines when he supposedly accepted a trip paid for by the San Diego Chargers.

He also broke his leg.

So Coan decided to quit college and signed with the Chargers, who eventually shipped him off to the Chiefs in 1963. But a year later he walked out of the Kansas City camp, saying only: "I'm tired of this stuff."

He eventually returned but was rarely used, gaining only 293 yards rushing in three years. But this season, the Chiefs, needing a replacement for the late Mack Lee Hill, gave him a long look during the exhibition season — and he produced.

Bills in Cellar

He produced well enough against the Bills to boost the Chiefs' stock in the Western Division and drop Buffalo's to its lowest in three years, leaving the defending league champions in the Eastern collar with a 9-2 record.

The other two weekend games were played Saturday night with Houston shutting out Oakland 31-0 and San Diego blanking Boston 24-0. New York defeated Miami 19-14 in a Friday night game.

George Blanda led the Oilers, completing 17 of 34 passes for 204 yards, hitting Ode Burrell with 23- and 12-yard touchdown strikes and kicking a 47-yard field goal.

The Chargers intercepted four Babe Parilli passes with Kenny Graham turning the first into a 32-yard touchdown. John Hadl's five-yard flip to Lance Alworth and Jim Allison's 61-yard jaunt accounted for the other touchdowns. Dick Van Raaphorst booted a 10-yard field goal.

Bank President Cards 81 Score At Woodstock CC

James A. Dwyer of Kingston, president of the Rondout National Bank, is the new Ulster County seniors golf champion.

The long time Twaalfskill member carved out nines of 38-34 for an 81 gross Sunday at Woodstock Country Club to lead the 11-man 70-and-over contingent by 10 strokes over runnerup Alfred Schmid of Wiltwyck Country Club.

Heading the 96-player field, largest in the 14-year history of the event, Dwyer also carded low net of 81-16-65 but under the rules the prize was awarded to Schmid with 90-23-67.

Dwyer is the third Seniors champion in the past three years. J. Carl Hartfuer of Woodstock ended Harry Hohnhorst's long reign in 1964 and Augustus Schrowang of Twaalfskill won in 1965.

Dr. Grant B. Morse of Saugerties, who plays out of Woodstock, captured the Class B title with a score of 42-44-86. Low net honors went to Phil Coletti of Woodstock on 88-13-75.

Prill Leads Net

Charles Prill of Woodstock, a 19 handicap, played, fired career lows of 38 and 81 to surprise a crack 25-player Class C field. Prill also registered the lowest net round of the tournament with his 81-19-62 but took the major prize. Low net honors went to Burton Haver of Twaalfskill with 83-15-68.

Robert H. Daley of Wiltwyck won the Class D title with 40-38-78. Robert Steuding of Wiltwyck had low net with 80-12-68. Arthur Ellis and Robert O. Merritt of Wiltwyck tied for the Class E title on 78's but Ellis won the prize on matching of cards, 1 up. Each had a pair of 39's.

Low net honors in the freshman division went to Dr. C. J. (Skeets) Goffredi of Twaalfskill on 84-15-69.

Gardner Cited

Ellis was awarded a single on the Rifenbury Memorial plaque, while Dwyer's name will be engraved on the deLisio Memorial plaque as the Class A winner.

Ralph E. Gardner of Wiltwyck was named winner of the annual H. F. King Memorial Award for distinguished service to golf over a period of years.

Gardner, who has been identified with the Herdgen Memorial since its inception, was highly praised by resident A. J. (Tony) deLisio of the Seniors Association, who called Gardner one of area golf's outstanding figures.

Stelle Interested In Pro Net Ranks

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP) — Australia's Fred Stolle, the new U. S. men's tennis champion, is the hottest prospect for the hungry pros — but he won't come cheaply.

"I'm not interested in being just another of the pros," the handsome, 27-year-old Sydney Davis Cup ace said today after winning his first major grass court title with a 4-6, 12-10, 6-3, 6-4 victory Sunday over countryman John Newcombe.

"They've offered me $60,000 for two years. I turned them down. If they want to talk money such as Frank Sedgman or Lew Hoad got, well, I'll listen."

Sedgman and Hoad reportedly received guarantees up to $125,000.

The pros may have to cough up that kind of dough to inject new life into their drab tour.

There are no pro plans for the new women's champion, Maria Bueno of Brazil, who actually isn't new, having won the crown three times before — 1961, 1963, 1964.

Maria, 26, holder of three Wimbledon crowns, wasn't pressed in beating Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., Sunday in the women's final 6-3, 6-1. "I'll play as long as tennis is fun," Maria said, "and it's still fun."

U. S. Starts Drive To Land Olympics

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Olympic Committee began preparations today for an early, all-out effort to land both the summer and winter Olympics for U. S. cities in 1976.

A committee spokesman said Saturday the board of directors had decided to begin preparations several years in advance in order to bring both sets of games to the country that year, the 200th signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The committee set Feb. 1, 1961, as the deadline for interested communities to submit applications to a screening committee.

The spokesman said the committee expected bids for the winter olympics would include one from Lake Placid, N. Y.

Stickles Gets 49er Touchdown

Monty Stickles scored the first touchdown of the season for the San Francisco 49ers Sunday in the club's 20-20 tie with Minnesota at Kezar Stadium.

The former Poughkeepsie High star and Notre Dame All-American caught a nine yard pass from quarterback John Brodie in the second period to climax a long drive.

Now in his seventh season of pro football, Stickles had caught 173 passes, good for 2,590 yards and 12 touchdowns in his previous six years in the play for pay ranks.

Rucky Revonah Wins Feature

MONTICELLO — Rucky Revonah, a notorious front-trotting puller, boosted his Monticello Raceway average to 400 for the year with a victory in Saturday night's featured fourth race, a $5,000 free-for-all trot. The stout-faced four-year-old bay gelding had previously won the $17,000 plus Founder's Cup trot here on July 23 and Saturday's start was his fifth of the local season.

Art Allen, first assistant to trainer Vernon Dancer, was in the sulky and turned in his usual competent effort. Allen, who reins the son of Ebby Hanover-Duchess of Memphis, has done a masterful job all year.

Allen has been a compatible companion for Rucky Revonah throughout his present campaign. Dancer, quick to recognize that it would be foolhardy to change a good thing, has left his young aide-de-camp in the seat.

So Art, who doesn't have much choice but to drive Rucky Revonah in front, headed there as starter Bill Rossbach moved his gate out of the way. By the eighth pole, he had achieved his goal.

Mr. Spindletop, another who prefers the leadership position, charged out after Rucky Revonah, who is owned by Norman Goldman of Bordentown, New Jersey, for pilot George Gilmour. Through a first quarter in :30.2, a half in 1:01.4 and a three-quarters in 1:32.4, Mr. Spindletop stayed neck and neck with Rucky Revonah. But shortly thereafter, the challenger began to tire.

It was at this point that Allen called on his bay gelding for the supreme effort and he obliged. Henri Filion came on with veteran Curly Lambert as did Jack Quinn with Peerless Yankee. At the end, however, Rucky Revonah was three-quarters the best with the mile in a fine 2:03.4. Curly Lambert took the runner-up spot over Peerless Yankee.

In making his Mighty M card read two wins, two seconds and a fifth, Rucky Revonah chalked up his seventh triumph of the year and boosted his seasonal bank account to over $27,000. For his supporters, the winner returned $9.00, $4.00 and $3.40. Last night's 3 and 1 daily double paid $73.80. Winning horses were Spangler Volo in the first and Rhythm Del in the second.

Warns Motorists

With children hurrying to and from newly-opened classes, the Auto Club of New York warns motorists to be particularly cautious when driving near school zones. Children may forget traffic safety lessons; drivers should always remember.

Dodgers Whitewash Houston Team Twice

By DICK COUCH

The National League pennant puzzle is still a long way from solution, but Los Angeles run-rejectors are beginning to fill in the blanks.

Sandy Koufax and three other Dodger pitchers kept Houston off the scoreboard for 18 innings Sunday as Los Angeles grounded the Astros 4-0 and 1-0 thereby sweeping into the league lead for the first time in five weeks.

The double shutout, coupled with St. Louis' 4-3 victory over Pittsburgh, sent the Dodgers one game ahead of the staggering Pirates and two in front of San Francisco in the torrid race.

After Koufax fired a six-hitter for his 23rd victory of the season, Joe Moeller, Bob Miller and Phil Regan scattered seven hits in the nightcap, completing a string of four straight shutouts.

The Dodgers staff has thrown 18 shutouts, five by Koufax, while compiling a brilliant earned run average of 2.69. Regan, who has contributed to one-

Caffey Is Packer Ace In 24-3 Win

By HAL BOCK

Lee Roy Caffey plays linebacker for Green Bay and hide 'n' seek against Baltimore.

Caffey won at the middle game against Johnny Unitas when he swiped a second-period pass and rammed 52 yards for the touchdown that triggered the Packers' 24-3 victory over the Colts Saturday night.

The National Football league opener matched the opponents in last season's memorable Western Conference playoff and the Packers, who squeezed through last December with Unitas sidelined, won easily this time.

They did it by embarrassing Baltimore's peerless quarterback, with three interceptions, two of them providing touchdowns in the final moments of the first half.

Unitas, who sat out the 1965 championship game was a bad knee, was leading 3-0 late in the second period when he threw a pass intended for Raymond Berry.

"I never saw Caffey," Unitas said later. "Berry was wide open when I looked."

It was Caffey who was wide open when Unitas threw. The 250-pound linebacker, who can run the 100 in a fraction over 10 seconds, dashed 52 yards for the touchdown.

In Sunday's openers, Cleveland ripped Washington 38-14, Los Angeles spoiled Atlanta's debut 19-14, Detroit upset Chicago 14-3, St. Louis outlasted Philadelphia 16-13, Minnesota rallied to the San Francisco 20-20 and New York and Pittsburgh battled to a 34-34 deadlock.

Cleveland, the defending Eastern Conference champion who played for the first time without the retired Jimmy Brown, looked listless in the first half against Washington. But Frank Ryan pulled the Browns together with three touchdown passes and Cleveland turned three interceptions and a recovered fumble into touchdowns for the victory.

Bruce Gossett kicked four field goals for Los Angeles and the Rams held on to beat fledgling Atlanta.

Detroit, winless in five exhibitions, stunned Chicago, scoring both its touchdowns in the second period. Tom Nowatzke wiped out a 3-0 Bear lead with a six-yard run and then Milt Plum hit Pat Studstill on a 25-yard pass for another score. After that, the Lions' defense stifled Chicago's attack.

BATTING—Tony Oliva, Twins, batted a home run, three singles and a sacrifice fly, scored three runs and drove in three while lifting his American League-leading batting mark to .320 as Minnesota drubbed Baltimore 11-6.

PITCHING—Bob Bolin Giants, stopped Chicago on three hits and struck out eight in a 2-0 victory that earned San Francisco a doubleheader split with the Cubs.

Besta Hanover Set For Yonkers Race

By The Associated Press

Best of All will be out this week to prove he is the best of all the juvenile pacing colts, but he may have a little trouble doing it.

The lightly raced son of Good Time—Besta Hanover has won his last six races in seven starts. The last four, two heats each in the Fox Stake at Indianapolis and the McMahon Memorial at DuQuoin, were in sub-two-minute clockings.

But DuQuoin and Indianapolis are mile tracks and the $100,000 Lawrence B. Sheppard Pace Thursday night is over Yonkers' half-mile racing strip. Familiar with the half-mile eastern ovals and a likely starter in the Sheppard is Romulus Hanover, a temperamental but speedy son of Dancer Hanover.

Trainer-driver William Houghton has two other good 2-year-old pacers in his stable—Nardin's Byrd and Tudor Hanover—and one or both may accompany Romulus in the rich race.

In other events this week at New York State's harness tracks, the New York Sire Stakes move into Vernon Downs for a full week of racing for the offspring of stallions that stand at stud in the state.

Monticello Raceway, which opened last May 5, closes its 117-night, 4-day season on Saturday.

In events over the weekend: Saratoga Raceway keeps changing the record books, this time with the pacing mark for 4-year-old geldings, and, in miniature style, the trotting mark for Shetland ponies.

W. W. Smith paced the mile in 1:58 4-5 Saturday, breaking the 1:59 2-5 set by Corsican at Saratoga in 1959. W. W. Smith won the $3,500 Invitational pace by 1½ lengths over Dusty Kay Gold. He paid $7 in the pari-mutuels.

A 6-year-old Shetland stallion, Chester Good, trotted the half-mile in 12:5, knocking a full second off the record set by King D., a Mexico, Mo., pony, earlier this year. Chester Good, owned by Doyle McKinney of Olney, Ill., won an invitational trot Sunday.

Scot Cody, owned by Gerald Fowler of Anderson, Ind., won the $4,000 American Shetland Pony National Sweepstakes for 3-year-old trotters Sunday. He captured both half-mile heats, in 1:35 and 1:36 2-5.

In other feature races last Saturday:

—At Vernon Downs, Tactile $6 won the $11,000 final of the Lewis C. Ryan Memorial Pace in 1:59 3-5.

—At Batavia Downs, Runnymede Chuck $3.40 won the $11,283 New York State pace for 4-year-olds in 2:03 1-5.

—At Yonkers Raceway, Style Setter $15 won the $15,000 Henry Hudson Trot in 2:03.

Orange Head Says Southall Is 'Best'

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Syracuse football coach Ben Schwartzwalder grimly looks forward to two weeks of practice before the Orangemen play their next scheduled game against UCLA here.

The Syracuse squad, which had been ranked seventh nationally in the Associated Press's pre-season poll, went down to defeat Saturday at the hands of Baylor, 35-12, in the only contest involving a New York State team.

"Baylor was ready for this game, we weren't," Schwartzwalder said after the game. "We played like a two-bit ball club and so we got beat."

Syracuse's running star, Floyd Little, added that he wasn't pleased with his teammates' play.

"We did not have any blocking and when the going got rough, it seemed as if our players were ready to quit," he was quoted as saying.

Little scored both Syracuse touchdowns, but he was no match for Baylor star, Terry Southall, who threw for four touchdowns, while completing 14 of 28 passes for 229 yards.

"Southall is the best quarterback I ever played against," Schwartzwalder said after the game. "He was a real player."

Games scheduled this Saturday: Boston University at Colgate; West Chester, Pa., at Ithaca; Middlebury at RPI; Alfred at Cortland State; Bates at St. Lawrence; Buffalo at Kent State; Rochester at Denison.

Internal Revenue Service to Close Hudson Office

The Internal Revenue Service is closing its Hudson office, effective September 30. The closing order follows a survey of the various branch offices in the Albany District, which services a 12-county area, with a view toward realignment, better use of available manpower and more efficient and economic operation.

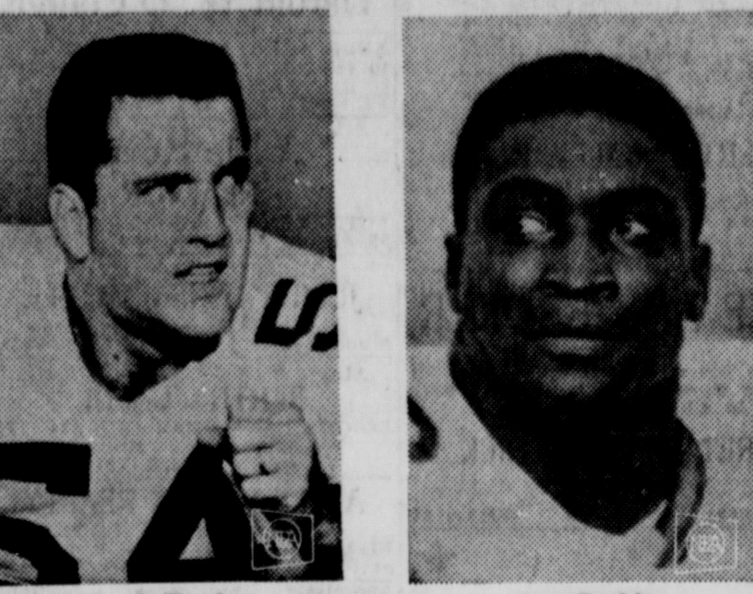

Essential information services formerly given to taxpayers at the Hudson office on a yearly basis will be provided by the Albany District office and the Kingston branch office.

Field audit and collection activities will continue as in the past, except that personnel will operate from the Albany and Kingston offices.

In order to insure that there will be no diminution of service to taxpayers who reside in the Hudson areas, an office location will be open for personal visits and telephone calls at scheduled hours each week during the normal tax filing period, January to April 15. The schedule will be determined by the volume of assistance requests from Hudson area residents.

9-DALLAS COWBOYS

Chuck Howley Don Perkins

OFFENSE

PASSING—Coach Tom Landry has to stop fiddling around and let Don Meredith do it all, or he has no chance. Meredith is a physical risk because of his scrambling, but he's showing signs of maturity. Early camp reports showed Jerry Rhome creeping up on Craig Morton for No. 2, RATING—B

RECEIVING—So many good ones. Landry tinkers with three deep receivers—Bob Hayes, Pete Gent, Frank Clarke—in same lineup. Clarke's nominally the tight end. For blocking, they switch to Pettis Norman. There's still Buddy Dial to be reckoned with. Swears he'll beat out Gent, RATING—A

RUNNING—The grand experiment of '66 is switch of Mel Renfro to halfback. Could be the making of the Cowboys. He could be another Sayers. Don Perkins gets as much out of his body as any man in game, but he fights to stay above 200. Good-looking rookie back in Walt Garrison for protection, RATING—B

LINE—Cowboys could lose title in the courtroom if Ralph Neely's not allowed to resume at tackle. With him, the front wall's imposing. Jim Boeke, Leon Donohue, Jake Kupp, Dave Manders round out crew. Tony Lisco will replace Neely if Oilers win case. Among kids, No. 1 draftee John Niland, a guard, and center Malcolm Walkers are job threats, RATING—B

KICKING—Danny Villanueva's back to handle the punting and place-kicking, though Cowboys are still looking at Aussie booter Colin Ridgway, who looks great in practice but flops under fire, RATING—B

DEFENSE

LINE—Must find another end to pair with George Andrie since Matti Youmans went to Atlanta. Holdover Larry Stephens automatically inherits job, though huge Jethro Pugh could develop. He's young. At tackle, Bob Lilly is as good as any man in football. Scares offensive coaches. Sidekick Jim Colvin, though, will have to battle to hold off rookie Willie Townes, RATING—B

LINEBACKING—Lee Roy Jordan takes over the middle for retired Jerry Tubbs without a hitch. Corner man Chuck Howley is probably the most underrated linebacker in NFL. Strong and swift and tough. Dave Edwards handles other side, with Harold Hays as swing man. A developing unit, RATING—B+

SECONDARY—The trick is not to miss Renfro at safety, where he was all-pro. The Cowboys picked up Packer veteran Hank Gremminger as insurance. He's had both corner and safety experience. The familiar faces are Cornell Green, Dan Bishop (who can be erratic), Warren Livingston (a utility type), Obert Logan and Mike Gaechter, who wanted to be traded. Green's the best of the group, RATING—B

SUMMARY—Cowboys are on the verge of a championship breakthrough in wide open Eastern Division if two factors fall their way: Meredith has a consistently good year and the experimental switch of Renfro to offense pans out. They need to jack up their attack to match the strong defense play. What happens to tackle Neely is also factor. PREDICTION—FIRST

Contenders Heat Up Coast Race

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's gubernatorial race, already a spectacular, heated up even more today after the first face-to-face encounter between Gov. Edmund G. Brown and his Republican challenger, actor Ronald Reagan.

They met — not in the proposed debate that Californians fervently hope to see — but on a national television program, NBC's "Meet the Press."

Each came away with something to crow about.

Brown, a Democrat, received a telephone call from President Johnson complimenting him on his vigorous defense of the program of the President's policy on Viet Nam.

Reagan found the opportunity off-camera — to remind Brown that the governor once presented him with a good citizenship award. That was in 1953. In the television program, Brown called Reagan "an enemy of the people."

In fact, the off-stage scenes constituted a good show in themselves.

They began when Brown, getting a voice-test at a microphone, spotted Reagan entering the studio. The governor rose, walked over to his rival and they shook hands. "Haven't seen you in a long time," he said.

Reagan quickly seized the opening. "I think the last time was when you gave me an award for good citizenship at the Jewish home for the aged in Reseda," he said. Reseda is a suburb of Los Angeles. After Brown walked away, the actor said, "He praised me rather fulsomely, too."

Brown submitted to makeup for the cameras. Reagan said he never wore makeup and wouldn't need any.

Soviet Grants 'Asylum' to Man, Former Priest

MOSCOW, Sept. 12 (AP) — Tass, the official Soviet news agency, reported today a U.S. citizen and former Roman Catholic priest has been granted "political asylum" in the Soviet Union.

Tass identified the American as Harold M. Koch and said he made his request "to protest against the criminal United States aggression in Viet Nam."

The Tass report did not give any further information about Koch.

An American Embassy spokesman said the Tass story was the first he had heard of the matter and that inquiries had been begun to find out more about Koch and his presence in Moscow.

Tass said the competent authorities examined the request and granted it. There was no mention of where the American is now or what he is doing.

Tass gave this text of the statement it said Koch made to the foreign ministry:

1. Harold M. Koch, ask to be granted political asylum in the Soviet Union. I make this request for the following reasons:

1. I protest against American aggression in Viet Nam which is daily increasing. There was no mention of where the American is now or what he is doing.

2. The American leaders are ignoring the helplessness and misery of the impoverished people in the States and especially the colored people to push forward the unjust war against the Vietnamese people.

3. Lastly, I wish to join the Soviet people in their work of promoting world peace and building a new social order in their country.

I request that the authorities in the U.S.S.R. consider my application at their earliest convenience and grant me an opportunity to take an active part in the struggle against the injustice and cruelty of the Vietnamese war.

I would be willing to use the press and any other media and hope that such an opportunity will be given me.

Backed Unsafely Charged

Theron Murray, 42, of Pine Bush, was cited early Saturday by State Troopers R. E. Pinnow and R. R. Brooks of the Ellenville detail, on a charge of backing unsafely following a collision on Route 209 at Clinton Street, Napanoch, Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes said Murray reportedly backed onto Route 209 into the path of a car driven by Michael Johnson, 57, of Canal Street, Ellenville. No injuries were claimed by occupants of the vehicles.

Town Police Chief Charles Schade said Paul George Hubner, of 662 East 14th Street, New York City, was in serious condition at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, suffering a bullet wound of the hip.

Schade told The Freeman that Detective Carl Linch and Patrolman Jack Eckert picked up Hubner as he was hitch-hiking on Dutchess Turnpike heading toward Millbrook. Hubner was taken before Justice of the Peace Lyle Quick. The man reportedly was found in possession of narcotic drugs.

Hubner was held without bail and ordered committed to the Dutchess County jail. As the accused man was being taken to a police car outside the Court Corners sub-station of the Town Police Department, he bolted and ran, the police chief said.

Officer Eckert fired four warning shots, but failed to halt the fleeing man. A fifth shot hit Hubner in the hip and he fell to the ground. He was rushed to the hospital in serious condition.

DISCUSS RIVER PROBLEMS — Congressmen Joseph Y. Resnick, third from left, headed a task force of state conservation officials and U. S. Rep. Resnick; Charles Cole, commander of the Kingston Power Boat Association and Kingston superintendent of public works; Bruce Howlett, a member of the Hudson River Valley Commission; Col. Astros May since it was about that time, draft and all."

He went into flight training — "right off the bat, as a cadet," he recalls.

"Later, I was associated with a lot of people in test pilot work, and I decided I'd like to do this myself, so I applied for the Navy test pilot school at Patuxent River, Md.," Gordon said. It was at this school he met Conrad in 1958.

In May 1961, Gordon set a speed record of 869 miles an hour and a transcontinental speed record of 2 hours and 47 minutes, flying a Navy jet from Los Angeles to New York.

Both served in Fighter Squadron 96 at the Miramar, Calif., Naval Air Station, when they applied for jobs as astronauts.

Smallest Astronaut
Conrad is the smallest astronaut, standing 5 feet 6 and shy of 150 pounds. He seems to be happy-go-lucky most of the time, but get him on the subject of careers and he'll let you know what he thinks.

"I used to be narrow-minded enough to think that everyone who didn't like to fly was stupid," he said firmly. "I've changed my mind now."

"I don't think flying in space is any different than the guy down here inventing artificial hearts. The thing that counts is that you like what you're doing. I don't care what it is."

"There are a lot of people in this country working for all the wrong reasons — for the dollar. They'd sell toilet seats if it paid more than doing what they really wanted to."

Born in Philadelphia, Conrad was graduated from Princeton University in 1953 with a degree in aeronautical engineering. His parents are divorced. His mother, now Mrs. Francis V. Sargent, lives in Haverford, Pa., and his father, Charles Conrad Sr., in Sarasota, Fla.

Conrad and the former Jane DuBose, a rancher's daughter from Uvalde, Tex., married the day he graduated from college, and a few days later he joined the Navy to become a flier. Their children are Peter, 11; Thomas, 9; Andrew, 7, and Christopher, 5.

Gordon married the former Barbara Jean Field of Freehold, Wash., two years after he joined the Navy. Their children are Carleen, 12; Richard, 10; Lawrence, 8; Thomas, 7; James, 6, and Diane, 5. His mother, a widow, resides in Seattle.

LWV FINANCE DRIVE—Supervisor William R. West Jr. of Woodstock accepts literature from Mrs. O. Bernant and Mrs. T. Gagnon at the League of Women Voters booth set up in town last Saturday in Woodstock as a prelude to their finance drive which starts today. The literature points up the League's interest in promoting political responsibility in local, town, and state government. The purpose of the finance drive is to solicit contributions from those who wish to support the League in its work, as the only funds the League receives are dues from members and contributions from outside sources. ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Richard Fitzgerald, 34, of Castleton, was killed early today when his automobile hit a construction excavation in a downtown street, police said.

munists tried as hard to sabotage anything as they did yesterday," Ky said. "Never before have they failed as yesterday."

'Beautiful Results'
"This announces the beginning of the end for the Communists," he added. The results, Ky exulted "were beautiful" but he said: "We have not yet achieved the final victory."

There are many obstacles before us and the more we achieve success the more the enemy will redouble his efforts."

"However," he added, "this victory permits us to believe in final victory. We do now have the conditions for final victory."

Ky was followed by chief of state Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu. "The Hanoi regime," Thieu said, will have to have second thoughts about the election they so roundly condemned as a farce."

Dramatic Red Defeat

The election was the first step toward restoring civilian government and it demonstrated that Ky's regime has effective administrative control over the majority of South Viet Nam.

It was a dramatic defeat for the Communists who mounted a campaign of terror in the days preceding the voting and a slap in the face for the once-powerful radical Buddhist minority which had called for a boycott of the polling.

The assembly will have six months to draw up a new constitution after it meets Sept. 26 to replace the one which was abrogated after the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963.

Then more elections are to be held to fill whatever offices the constitution sets up. Almost certainly the country is expected to end up with a presidency and a balancing legislature.

The Communist terror campaign, which had centered on Saigon and surrounding Gia Dinh Province, left at least 28 dead and 65 wounded in the final two days.

mistake in endorsing Lt. Gov. A.M. (Sandy) Keith to take over the governor's chair. Polls give him a splendid chance of doing that.

Otherwise the Minnesota prospect is Democratic renomination of Sen. Walter F. Mondale and Republican nomination of Harold LeVander for governor and Robert A. Forsythe for senator. All three have nominal primary opposition.

Briefly running over the others:

MARYLAND — Eight candidates for Democratic nomination for governor with Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan and Rep. Carlton P. Sickles regarded as chief contenders and contractor George P. Mahoney as a dark horse. Spiro T. Agnew, Baltimore County executive (administrative officer), appears sure of Republican nomination although there is field of five.

WISCONSIN — Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey and National Committeeman David Carley contesting for Democratic nomination for governor. Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles unopposed for renomination.

Other Primaries
NEW JERSEY — Sen. Clifford Case unopposed for Republican renomination. Warren W. Wientz big favorite among five entries for Democratic nomination.

COLORADO — Nominations for governor and senator uncontested. Democrats putting Lt. Gov. Robert L. Knous against Republican Gov. John A. Love and Roy Romer, a state senator, against Sen. Gordon L. Allott.

RHODE ISLAND — Retired WAC Lt. Col. Ruth Briggs and Charles Eden vying for Republican nomination, against Sen. Claiborne Pell, unopposed in Democratic primary. Republican Gov. John H. Chafee and Democrat Horace Hobbs, now mayor of Warwick, unopposed for gubernatorial nominations.

VERMONT — Businessman Richard Snelling and Tom Hayes, once aid to Sen. Winston L. Prouty, seeking Republican nomination against Democratic Gov. Philip Hoff, unopposed for renomination.

NEW HAMPSHIRE — Democrats: Gov. John W. King and Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre unopposed for renomination. Former Gov. Hugh Gregg is seeking the nomination for governor along with James Barry former head of the State Welfare Department; Alexander Taft, party legislative floor leader, and Mayor Peter Lessard of Laconia.

Bidding for the Senate nomination are former Govs. Wesley Powell and Lane Dwinell; Harrison Thynge, retired Air Force general; William Johnson, former state party chairman; Deloris Bridges, widow of former Sen. Styles Bridges, and Harold Ayer, a construction man.

ARIZONA — Gov. Sam Goddard, asking Democratic renomination, has opposition from House Speaker Jack Gilbert and Prosecuting Atty. Norman Green of Tucson. Republican contenders are former Atty. Gen. Robert Pickrell, John Haugh, a Tucson businessman, and former Mayor Jack Williams of Phoenix.

UTAH — Reps. Laurence J. Burton, R., and David S. King, D., unopposed for renomination. There are primary contests over the nominations against them. No election of senator or governor this year.

May Defer Teachers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Stanley R. Tupper, R-Maine, has asked the Selective Service System to find a way to defer from the draft public school teachers in their early 20s.

Tupper told Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service, that the action would help alleviate a severe shortage of teachers in Maine.

Fish Says 'Great Society' Payroll Is Still Bulging

POUGHKEEPSIE — Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for Congress in the 28th Congressional District, today slashed at Administration Democrats for LBJ's "phony economy drive."

Figures released by the Joint Congressional Committee on the Reduction of Non-essential Federal Expenditures, confirm that 115,000 employees have been added to the federal work force since last December.

Said Fish, "Great Society spending is at the very root of the current inflationary spiral. Food prices are climbing like rockets and wages are close behind and all the President and his rubber stamp Congressmen have done is flick off a few lights in the White House closets."

"At a time when the nation is forced to consider drastic anti-inflationary measures, such as wage-price controls and raising taxes, the least the President can do is keep his promises to cut size of federal bureaucracy."

The GOP candidate was referring to a call to government agencies by the President on December 1, 1965, to cut back employment by 25,000.

"Last year," Fish continued, "the President announced that he had called on all government agencies to cut back the number of civilian employees and today, only eight months later, the great society payroll is still bulging."

part, of the Supreme Court decision in Baxstrom v. Herold, 383 U. S. 107 (February 21, 1966).

In addition, Gov. Rockefeller said, a special program is being set up to include appropriate education, vocational training, counseling, occupational therapy, physical education and recreation, and psychological services.

The Department of Correction plans to transfer 80 men each week until all of the approximately 400 mentally retarded inmates have been moved from the institution at Napanoch to the Beacon Institution, Commissioner of Correction Paul D. McGinnis reported to Gov. Rockefeller.

Will Be Reformatory

Catskill Reformatory, known as Eastern Correction Institution until this legislation became effective July 28, (Chapter 819, L. 1966), will, after the transfers have been completed, be used entirely as a reformatory for young male offenders, about 600 of whom are presently confined in one branch of the institution.

"Establishment of the new institution," Gov. Rockefeller said, "will enable the State to provide better care for mentally retarded offenders committed to the Department of Correction, through maximum utilization of existing staff and facilities and introduction of a program based on the most advanced knowledge in this specialized area of training."

"At the same time," Gov. Rockefeller said, "the State will immediately have the benefit of an additional reformatory for male offenders between the ages of sixteen and thirty, and will thus delay the need for construction of a new institution of this type."

"The mentally retarded inmates of the Beacon Institution," Gov. Rockefeller stressed, "will have no contact with the 850 mentally ill patients now under treatment at Matteawan State Hospital."

W. Cecil Johnston, M. D., superintendent of the Hospital, will also be superintendent of the Beacon Institution.

"This measure, Gov. Rockefeller said, is one of seven recommendations of his Special Committee enacted into law in 1966. The Committee, appointed last December for the purpose of seeking ways of preventing first offenders from returning to crime, has as its co-chairman Commissioner McGinnis and Russell G. Oswald, chairman of the Board of Parole."
